LONDON—One of the most sensible decisions reached by De Gasperi's new Italian government is to call a halt on endless heresy hunting against former members of the Fascist party. They have now set a date, March 31, as the deadline for all decisions concerning the future state employment of those who served Italy under the Fascist regime.

CHURCHILL

For the last eighteen months, hundreds of thousands of small employees in government departments, post offices and banks have been living in daily expectation of being liquidated as ex-Fascists. This naturally has resulted in a considerable slowing down of all administration and business. People don't work well when they think they may be about to be dismissed.

The Italian Fascist party was organized on entirely different lines from the National Socialist party in Germany and the Communist party in Russia. In 1940, the Rus-

2 Youths Admit Series of Thefts Following Arrests

Blamed for the theft of more than $400 worth of property in the city, two young Edmonton boys have been apprehended by city detectives. The boys were located by the detectives after a series of investigations into many crimes.

QUESTIONED BY THE police, the boys have admitted the theft of a ring valued at $132.50 and a wrist watch worth $115, together with large quantities of cigarettes, chocolates, a sum of $81, and other articles.

Making a full disclosure of their crimes, the boys told police that they had worked together in the thefts. The ring, stolen from a city jeweler, was taken by one of the boys, while the other held the attention of the proprietor of the store.

THEFT OF CIGARETTES and chocolates from delivery trucks and warehouses in the city was related by the boys to police. The youths stated that the thefts had taken place over a period of more than a year.

Police have also apprehended a 12-year-old boy who stole $20 from Philip Leichner, 12702 86 street. The money is alleged to have been taken from Leichner's pockets while he was in a turkish bath establishment.

Reich Promised Japan War Aid

By ANN STRINGER

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

NUERNBERG, Jan. 9.—(BUP)—Joachim von Ribbentrop in 1941 promised Japan aid against the United States and urged Japan to attack Russia, the war crimes tribunal was told today.

The charge was made by Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe, British prosecutor, who asserted the Nazi foreign minister told the Japanese ambassador, Hiroshi Oshima that it was essential "that Japan effect her new order in the east without losing this opportunity."

OSHIMA ASKED Ribbentrop in November, 1941, whether a German-American war was imminent, Maxwell-Fyfe said, and the foreign minister replied:

"Roosevelt is a fanatic so it is impossible to tell what he will do".

One hour after Germany learned of the Pearl Harbor attack, Ribbentrop advised Oshima that the German navy had been ordered to attack American shipping—four days before the formal declaration of war.

Ribbentrop was described as having drafted the laws for the occupation of Czechoslovakia and Holland and therefore responsible for the conduct of German administrators in the two countries.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 9.—Considered one of the most important milestones in the history of Alberta's stormy agricultural past, the resolution proposing a triple alliance of the Alberta Farmers' Union, United Farmers of Alberta and the Alberta Federation of Agriculture was carried by a substantial majority on an uncounted vote at the Tuesday afternoon session of the four-day annual convention of the UFA in progress at the Palliser hotel. More than 400 UFA delegates were in attendance at the dramatic session, as well as fraternal delegates and visitors from the other farm organizations.

THE OTHER TWO FARM organizations — AFU and AFA — accepted the resolution unanimously at their conventions in Edmon-

George Church Is Re-Elected Head of UFA

By J. V. O'NEILL

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—George E. Church, Balzac, was re-elected president of the United Farmers of Alberta today from a slate of six nominees, all of whom withdrew in favor of Mr. Church. Delegates and visitors totalled about 600 at the time of election, and the large convention room of the Palliser hotel was packed.

NOMINEES who withdrew their names were: M. H. Ward, Arrowwood; J. Sutherland, Hanna; Keith Rosenberger, Balzac; Henry Spencer, Edgerton; and J. E. Brownlee, K.C., Calgary. Mr. Brownlee was not at the convention at the time of his nomination, but was contacted by telephone.

Mr. Church thanked members and delegates for the confidence they had placed in his service as president, and stated it would be a real pleasure to carry on with the work they had made so fruitful for the UFA.

HE SAID he was glad to note that members were again holding constituency conventions following interruption of this healthy UFA characteristic by the war.

"I hope you will continue these conventions," said Mr. Church. "You can elect presidents and vice-presidents but only members themselves are active at constituency association meetings it makes great difficulty for those in office. Thank you, my friends. I am proud to continue as president of the greatest farm organization in Canada."

Nominations for vice-president were scheduled for the afternoon.

Calls on West to Work for Better North Transportation

Edmonton has at her "back door" one of the greatest potential gold camps in the world in the rich Yellowknife area but Edmonton and western business men must work for better and cheaper transportation if the west is to "cash in" on this "golden" opportunity.

THIS WAS THE view expressed in an interview Tuesday by Charles McCrea, KC, LLB, Toronto, president and managing director of Negus Mines Ltd., minister of mines for Ontario from 1923 to 1934 and a veteran in the mining business since 1901.

Mr. McCrea will address the annual meeting of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines being held here Thursday. He will speak on "Canada and the Mining Outlook and What the Mining Industry in Canada Means to National Development."

YELLOWKNIFE FACES another great year of continuous development, Mr. McCrea predicted, with his own Negus company stepping up production of its established mine at Yellowknife and planning a large amount of exploration work on some 200 claims in the Yellowknife, Indian Lake and Sunset districts. Ottawa Greets Gen. Eisenhower

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Cheering crowds broke police lines today to welcome General of the Army Eisenhower to Canada's capital.

As a battery of guns boomed a salute and the carillon in the peace tower pealed patriotic airs, the General made a brief tour of the downtown area. He waved and smiled to the cheering thousands who stood in driving hail and sleet to offer a hearty greeting.

PRIME MINISTER Mackenzie King led three cheers after the General left his car to salute the war memorial. And then the crowd broke through the police lines and surrounded the distinguished visitor.

They clapped him on the back and shouted "good old Ike" and it was only after considerable difficulty that giant Mounties extricated the smiling warrior from the crowd.

The former Allied supreme commander in Europe arrived for a four-day visit which his aide told newspapermen was "strictly social."

Caucus Considers Routine Matters

Social Credit MLA's in caucus at the legislative building had not advanced beyond routine matters at the luncheon adjournment of the second day's sitting. N. B. James, MLA, chairman of the public relations committee, told the press Wednesday.

It is stated that similar affairs of the department of public works and highways (Hon. W. A. Fallow) will receive the attention of the afternoon sitting.

THIS IS IN CONTINUATION of a more general survey of departmental requirements commenced on Tuesday afternoon and carried over into a night sitting. At that sitting the members made a general survey, "without going into particulars", the public relations committee said, of the industrial situation in Alberta, which comes within Hon. C. E. Gerhart's department of trade and industry, and the possibility of reaching out into new fields.

British Armies Of Future May Train in Canada

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(Reuters)—Possibility that British armies of the future will be trained in Canada was suggested today by Maj. W. E. Shepgard, correspondent of the Labor Daily Herald, in a front-page article. It added, however, that no decision has yet been reached.

He wrote: "Establishment of a training area for future British armies in Canada is believed to be regarded favorably by the Dominion government.

"It would benefit financially from the scheme which is now uppermost in the war office's consideration of possible sites. And Canada would be glad to have British troops using such an area.

"BRITAIN IS TOO SMALL to allow of mechanized and airborne forces being exercised in the far-ranging manoeuvres which form so vital a part of modern warfare and in which the army attained such proficiency during the recent war.

"Other larger areas must therefore be found.

"At one time North Africa was contemplated, but there were political difficulties. . . ."

The article concluded that financial difficulties would arise in the proposal to train in Canada and "hearing in mind the present and future calls on Britain's limited monetary resources, these have to be taken seriously into consideration. The whole matter is still under departmental discussion and no decision has yet been reached."

4-Year Construction, Conversion Program Ready for Approval

A four-year construction program for the conversion of the remainder of Edmonton's street railway system to combined trolley and motor coach operation with feeder lines, costing $3,469,000, was outlined by City Commissioner R. J. Gibb to members of the city council's utilities committee at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the Civic block.

ALSO SUBMITTED TO THE COMMITTEE was an alternative four-year plan costing $4,552,000, under which the present street railway system would be rehabilitated, and a system of motor coach feeder lines established.

Commissioner Gibb told committee members that the commissioners as a board have not had an opportunity to consider the report in detail. He said that some alterations would be made in certain of the proposals, and that recommendations from the commission board would be submitted to a meeting of the committee in the near future.

He intimated, however, that the commissioners favored the conver-

City Detective Is Given Rank Of Inspector

Promotion of Detective Sergeant Murdo Munro to the rank of inspector on the city police force was announced Wednesday by Mayor Harry Ainlay. He succeeds Inspector Donald Hind who retired on pension recently.

THE NEW INSPECTOR joined the city force in 1914, but left shortly after when he enlisted for service in the First Great War, going overseas with the First Pioneers' Battalion. He was awarded the Military Medal for gallantry.

Inspector Munro returned to the force after the last war and joined the detective department in 1928. He took a prominent part in several important investigations. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant about four years ago.

COMMENTING on Insp. Munro's promotion, Chief Constable Reg. Jennings stated that the new inspector was a "thoroughly experienced police officer." He pointed out that Munro had had a great deal of experience on investigational work and said he would be fully capable of taking charge of the police force at night.

Chief Jennings stated that Insp. Munro would alternate with Inspector M. A. Kelly at the South Side police station.

CONTACTED BY THE BULLETIN, the new inspector at first refused to believe that he had been appointed to the vacant inspector's post. "It is all news to me," he said.

Membership Decline Hits UFA Finances

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—(CP)—The United Farmers of Alberta finished the year 1945 with a deficit on operations totalling $120.40 but at the same period there was a accumulated surplus of $7,161.95 on paper, according to the annual financial report filed at the Tuesday afternoon session of the annual convention.

Total assets of $34,828.21 were recorded at the end of the year.

A fairly substantial decline in membership during 1945 had had some effect on the financial position of the organization, the report disclosed.

INCOME FROM current dues during the year amounted to $4,695.08, of which $2,438.84 was contributed by UFA members and $1,596 by UFWA members.

Collections of arrears of dues also amounted to $4,256 during the year.

A grant of $2,500 was received from the United Grain Growers Ltd. during the year.

ON THE expenditure side the sum of $5,705 was spent on organization, while salaries and administration expenses of the central office amounted to $5,160.44.

The membership report showed a serious decline compared with 1944, at the end of the year, total membership which includes the UFA, UFWA, junior branch, life members and members at large, was 9,410 as compared with 14,673 at the end of the previous year.

Peak membership was reached in 1921 when a membership of 30,483 was recorded. That was the year when the UFA government was first swept into power in Alberta. This government continued in office until 1935 when it was defeated by the Aberhart Social Credit government.

UFA MEMBERSHIP in 1945 totalled 5,340. The UFWA reported a membership of 1,732. The junior section had 781 members while members at large totalled 1,586.

In 1944, the UFA membership was 9,132; UFWA 1,826; juniors, 767 and members at large, 2,677.

Farmers Unite

ton last November and December.

George E. Church, Balzac, president of the UFA, moved the resolution after a lengthy endorsement of its principles. It was seconded by R. Hennig, Fort Saskatchewan, a director of the UFA. Text of the resolution follows:

"WHEREAS THE Canadian Federation of Agriculture is a national organization with a provincial unit in every province;

"Whereas in the interests there should be only one farm organization in Alberta;

"Therefore be it resolved that the Alberta Federation of Agriculture should be reorganized to provide for the merging of the United Farmers of Alberta and the Alberta Farmers' Union on the following principles:

"Provide for the setting up of locals on a direct membership basis; of annual convention composed of locals and affiliate organizations; to provide for a women's section; to provide for a junior section; the organization to be non-political.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that if the other two organizations agree to these principles, this convention authorize its board of directors to proceed with the preliminary steps for amalgamation by setting up a committee to carry on negotiations with the other two organizations and calling of a special convention to ratify amalgamation and elect six members to a provisional board to carry on the work until after the first annual convention of the new organization."

Although each of the three organizations has passed the amalgamation resolution it does not mean there will be an immediate fusing of the farm bodies. Each will hold one more separate convention and the plans drawn up by the 18 members composing the interim committee will be considered for ratification. If each group approves, a joint convention will be called for approval of a new constitution which will embrace the three organizations under the title of Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

In addition to Mr Church and Mr. Hennig three other speakers added their weight in addresses urging acceptance of the resolution without amendment. They were: Mrs. Ray Carter, Sylvan Lake, a former president of the UFWA, Mrs. R. Ross Millet, president of the UFWA, and Henry Spencer.

DURING DISCUSSION period there were a number of objections, most of which centred on a disinclination to drop the identity of the UFA. A few voices were heard expressing apprehension over the strike clause included in the amalgamation resolution of the Alberta Farmers' Union. This was recently brought to national attention through a statement to The Edmonton Bulletin from Carl Stimpfle, president of the AFU, in which it sought the federal government's early action on disallowing an increase in price to the consumer of petroleum products.

Speakers for the resolution pointed out that the board of each farm organization concerned had voiced objection to the increase, and that the provincial government and several trade unions.

THE CONVENTION CARRIED a resolution seeking authority of the provincial legislature for a change in name in an amendment to the act of incorporation. The name chosen to succeed United Farmers of Alberta is United Farmers of Alberta Co-operative Limited.

Relief from the rather serious atmosphere prevailing throughout the afternoon session came from a letter from Premier Manning, document which concerned itself in the establishing of a central government of the world.

It was one of the most eloquent resolutions of the hundred or more contained in the book and came from the Hanna local of the UFA. It observed that science had advanced in destructive methods of warfare beyond the power of humans to control it separately, and so recommended the UFA consitution be altered to include support of all educational and other efforts aimed at bringing about an actively operating world authority.

HUMOROUSLY, IF NOT somewhat ironically, the printer slipped in one paragraph of "whereases" in read: "Whereas treaties, agreements, alliances, balances of power and national government are all important in the face of these methods of destruction . . ."

It should have read, "are all impotent."

However, the "important" thing was that it carried as amended following a change from the vast disunity in meaning of the two words.

By The Canadian Press

Considerable time was spent discussing the unique position of the UFA, in that it owns and operates a larger consumer co-operative business known as the UFA Central Co-Op. Although this organization is now and will continue to be affiliated with the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, the federation wants to steer clear of managing commercial enterprises. Therefore the UFA Central Co-Op will continue in business.

TO GET OVER the organizational difficulty involved, the convention agreed that the UFA should be split formally and completely the Co-Op separating from the political or "educational" part will merge with the AFA, and the Co-Op will continue as a co-operative and nothing more.

The United Farmers of Alberta, which for 37 years was the official voice of agriculture in this province, was at one time a political power as well.

IN THE PROVINCIAL election of 1921, the U.F.A., led by Herbert Greenfield, defeated the Liberal administration of Premier Charles Stewart, winning 29 of the 60 seats in the legislature, and Greenfield became premier and provincial treasurer.

It was the beginning of a UFA political reign that endured until the Social Credit victory of 1935.

Edmonton Bulletin Staff Writer

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—A three-alarm fire which broke out in the basement of the Cosy Cafe, 111 8th avenue west, shortly after 12 a.m. almost completely gutted one of Calgary's oldest landmarks. Firemen were still playing the hose on its interior at 2 o'clock.

HARRY SAVAGE, proprietor of the Cosy Cafe, would not essay an estimate of the damage although it is judged it will run into many thousands of dollars. He would not say whether or not insurance was carried.

Redecoration and renovation work had just about been completed in the cafe which was installed with new counters, seats and booths, it was stated by one of the cafe employees.

Cause of the fire had not been determined at a late hour.

Charged With Theft 366 Bottles Liquor

NANAIMO, B.C. Jan. 9.—(CP)—Roy William Twaddell and Thomas S. Syme, charged with breaking and entering in connection with the theft of 366 bottles of liquor from the nearby Parksville liquor store last Dec. 19, yesterday were committed for trial when they appeared for preliminary hearing before Magistrate C. H. Beevor-Potts.

Fingerprint experts testified that Twaddell's fingerprints were identical to those upon part-emptied bottles found in the liquor store after the burglary.

FROM VARIOUS SWAMP and bush caches, police recovered 304 bottles and a pair of abandoned cotton gloves. Twaddell's wallet was found near the liquor store.

At the hearing, Syme was given immediate trial for possession of five bottles of spirits, none of which bore the British Columbia Liquor Commission seal, and was fined $50 or 30 days when found guilty.

Twaddell still faces a charge of attempting to steal an automobile in connection with the burglary.

Of Farm Groups Delegates State Views on Union

By J. V. O'NEILL
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Writer

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—Lobby of the commodious Palliser hotel buzzed with plenty of conversation Tuesday after delegates and visitors to the UFA convention filed from the Oak room where they had given the nod to amalgamation with the Alberta Farmers' Union and the Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

CATCHING THE SPIRIT of the historic occasion a reporter wandered throughout the throng asking individuals this question:

"What was your immediate reaction following decision of the delegates favoring amalgamation of the three Alberta farm groups?"

Here are the replies:

A. Wood, president, Central Alberta Dairy Pool: "I felt it was the only possible course left open to the farmers of the province."

A. T. Baker, director, wheat pool: "I felt it was a step in the right direction, long overdue in Alberta."

M. G. Gudlaugson, Clairmont, UFA director: "I am absolutely in favor of amalgamation and I believe the majority of the farmers are."

DONALD MACLEOD, Lake Isle, UFA director: "I think it is the logical development and should be the means of giving great strength to the farm movement."

J. Russell Love, Edmonton: "One of the best moves toward consolidating the farm movement we had for a long time—it's only through united effort we can hope to get anywhere."

Henri Levesque, visitor: "I have no connection with the organization and just happened to drop into the meeting with a friend, but I think the amalgamation is a good idea. In Quebec where I come from we're going in more and more for Unions, and I notice by the papers that even the Indians in Saskatchewan are forming a union."

MRS. H. W. BURNE, Gleichen, past president of the UFWA: "There are several things that remain to be threshed out but in the main I think the merger will be a good thing."

Mrs. P. Doel, Gwynne: "Our local was all in favor of it—they figure the stronger an organization becomes the greater the likelihood of that greater things can be accomplished."

ERNEST COOK, CALMAR, provincial president CCF and director UFA: "I think it was a definite recognition of the spreading demands of the common people not only in Alberta but all over the world; the desire to combine their strength to meet the issues of the post-war period."

sion to trolley and motor coach operation rather than the proposal to rehabilitate the present street railway system.

THE REPORT ON THE conversion and rehabilitation plans for the street railway were prepared by P. L. Debney, a member of the city engineer's staff, and had been on loan to the street railway department. Mr. Debney has spent several months on the preparation of the report which deals with considerable data in connection with the operation of the system.

Of the $2,469,000 proposed expenditures under the four-year conversion plan, $2,395,000 would be provided by the street railway system, and $1,074,000 by the city at large and from property assessment.

THE FOUR-YEAR rehabilitation plan would be met by expenditures totalling $3,842,000 by the street railway system, and $74,000 being contributed by the city at large and under the heading of property assessment.

Dealing with the financing of the proposed conversion plan to trolley bus and motor coaches, the report states that "it is anticipated that the major portion of the improvements can be financed from the street railway system's reserve fund for replacements."

IT IS ESTIMATED that at the end of 1945 there will be $700,000 available in this reserve fund, and that in 1946 a total of $215,500 will be placed to the account. In 1947 it is anticipated that $225,000 can be contributed for the program, with $216,000 in 1948, $268,000 in 1949, and $290,000 in 1950 for a total from the reserve account of $1,784,500, leaving a balance of $610,000 which it is proposed to capitalize.

A consolidated expansion of the conversion work is scheduled for 1946, including the erection of an addition to the present car barns for accommodation of and servicing trolley buses costing $120,000, and also the building of a garage at the east barns to house 20 motor coaches. The cost of the latter building is set at $75,000.

DURING THE YEAR a new route will be opened up, to be known as the Kingsway route. It will run from 118 avenue and 124 street to Jasper avenue, by way of 118 avenue, Kingsway, 111 avenue, along 101 street to the CNR depot, and down 109 street to Jasper avenue, returning by 101 street.

This route will permit residents in the northeast and northwest sections of the city to travel to and from the downtown area without the long trek through the centre of the city.

A 30-foot paving strip will be constructed on 118 avenue from 121 street to 124 street and curb and gutter will be placed at a cost of $21,000. Special drainage construction along the route will cost a further $9,000, and the construction of a turn at the southeast corner of 124 street will amount to $1,000. Five motor coaches will be needed on this route. They will cost $75,000.

ANOTHER ROUTE PROPOSED for 1946 is the Bonnie Doon loop, to be operated with a supply of seven motor coaches will cost $295,000. The route will run from 104 street and 90 avenue via 82 avenue to 91 street, along a new road at 92 street to 95 avenue, and then on 93 street to 88 avenue, and across the low level bridge to the downtown loop and return.

Paving on this route from 92 street along 88 avenue to Connor's Road will cost $47,000, and the construction and paving of a new hill road will cost $20,000, with $10,000 to be expended on storm drainage on the hill construction. The paving of 95 avenue from 93 street to 99 street will cost $60,000, and the extension of Mill Creek arch culvert, $5,000. The seven motor coaches it is proposed to use on this route will cost $105,000.

ALSO TO BE UNDERTAKEN in 1946 is the construction and establishment of a Ritchie district stub line. This will cost $78,000.

The proposed stub line will run from 82 avenue at 99 street south on 99 street and west on 76 avenue to 80 street. It will be necessary to widen the pavement on 76 avenue to 22 feet, and to reconstruct existing paving on 99 street and 76 avenue. The cost of this work is set at $25,000. The cost of paving 76 avenue from 99 street and 95 street is estimated at $20,000, and storm drainage on the route at $3,000. The cost of the two motor coaches to be provided for the route is set at $30,000.

A NORTH EDMONTON stub line also is proposed for 1946. This would run from 118 avenue along the Fort Trail to 127 avenue and

EARLIER TODAY police went to the vicinity of the crime and seized the second janitor, whom they described as about 30 years old, also a native of Belgium and a close friend of the janitor arrested yesterday.

In the basement of the elderly man's building, police disclosed, they found bloodstains and pools of the girl's internal organs in a laundry tub drain, as well as several small bones in a furnace. All parts of the child's body except the arms were found Monday in sewers near her home. The grue-some discoveries came more than 12 hours after Suzanne had been kidnapped from her home by a man who left a note demanding $20,000 ransom.

return. Widening pavement to 22 feet along this route will cost $35,000, and the provision of three motor coaches for the route $180,000.

A stub line serving residents on 106 street on the south side is also scheduled for 1946 construction. This line will run along 104 street from the south side loop by way of University avenue, 76 avenue on 106 street to 68 avenue and return. The widening of pavement on 106 street between 78 and 68 avenues will cost $20,000, with a further $31,000 to provide the two motor coaches needed for the route.

IT IS PROPOSED in 1947 to extend the 95 street trolley bus service north on 95 street from 111 avenue to 118 avenue, and then east to 82 street. Three additional trolley coaches will be necessary for this extension, the cost of the coaches being $59,000.

In all, the 1946 conversion and extension plan calls for the conversion of 30 motor coaches and three trolley coaches. Commissioner Gibb assured committee members these would be delivered in 1946.

Only two projects are scheduled for 1947. They are the conversion to trolley bus operation via the high level bridge, and a paving, boulevarding and curbing project on 82 avenue costing $11,000.

THE CONVERSION of the south side loop via the high level bridge is estimated to cost $502,000. Of this amount, $180,000 would represent the 13 trolley coaches needed for the route; $30,000 for the erection of overhead supports on each end of the high level bridge; the removal of tracks on 82 avenue and 109 street and repaving, $20,000, and the redecking of the bridge and changing approaches $129,000.

In 1948 it is proposed to convert the system from 101 street on the Jasper avenue route west to 124 street via 118 avenue, 124 street with turning loops at 112 and 118 avenues. The paving of the road on 118 avenue will cost $73,000, and the construction of the overhead wire from 109 street to 118 avenue $29,000.

THE REMOVAL of rails along the route will cost $31,000, and the purchase of 11 trolley coaches from 109 street to 124 street, $50,000, with a further $47,000 to pave the track area on 124 street. The cost of the 14 trolley coaches needed for this route is $277,000.

Also scheduled for 1948 is the conversion of the 82 avenue route to trolley bus operation. Total cost of this conversion is set at $472,000. Of this amount, $210,000 is required for the 11 trolley coaches needed for the route; $264,000 will be required for paving, drainage, curbing and gutter construction, and $31,000 for track lifting, and the erection of overhead wiring.

IN 1949 IT IS proposed to extend the Kingsway service to Calder. The cost of this extension is set at $219,000 of which $49,000 represents the cost of the 7 coaches needed on the extended route; $8,000 for the removal of street railway tracks on 109 street and 118 avenue, and $162 for paving, curbings and drainage.

Also scheduled for 1949 is the conversion of the street railway along 97 street north to 111 avenue to 95 street and then north on that street to 118 avenue and on to 124 street. This conversion will cost $285,000. Eight trolley coaches will be needed for the route, the cost of which will be $152,000. Construction and converting of overhead wiring is set at $30,000, with the lifting of rails and repairing of paving at $58,000. Paving 118 avenue to the Arena will cost $15,000.

IT IS PROPOSED also to complete the North Edmonton loop at a cost of $177,000, and to convert the 102 avenue route from 124 street to 149 street to trolley coach operation. The cost of the latter project is set at $183,000.

Under the street railway rehabilitation program it will be necessary to purchase 50 street cars at a cost of $1,580,000 with general new construction, street paving, renewal of rails, etc., costing $1,717,000.

Provision of feeder lines for the system would cost $351,000 for equipment, and $607,000 in paving, curbing, and other general construction.

A special meeting of the utilities committee will be held on Thursday, Jan. 17, to hear delegations from city organizations and from the chief railway facilities to their territory.

Packing Strike

less for us to work a long day while there are unemployed people and while still more packing workers are being laid off."

A strike threatened the industry last October in a dispute over wages and working conditions, and the Dominion government took over the plants, appointing J. A. Taggart, chairman of the food board, federal controller.

Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of Winnipeg was appointed a mediator and at a conference here the strike was averted when agreement was reached on a 45-hour week and a wage increase of 4½ cents an hour. The former work week was 48 hours.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Second strike vote in four months may be taken by packinghouse workers across the dominion because of differences with management s over interpretation of last fall's Winnipeg agreement, William Symington, British Columbia international representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) said last night.

Reporting to Vancouver Labor Council (CCL), Mr. Symington said the management's interpretation of the agreement reached at a conference between representatives of the union and the three major companies in the industry—Swift's Canada Packers and Burns and Company—with Mr. Justice S. E. Richards as government mediator was causing "deep concern among the workers."

Executives of packing plants here stated they had not heard of any action to take a strike vote in Edmonton plants. They had no comment to make on the Winnipeg announcement that strike votes were being taken in plants there during next week.

A STRIKE VOTE among workers in Edmonton packing plants is a possibility in the near future, according to John Lenglet of the United Packing House Workers of America.

An executive meeting of the union was held Tuesday night, without any decision being taken. Membership meetings are being scheduled before the end of the week.

The union, Mr. Lenglet said, is not satisfied with the interpretation of a ruling made by Mr. Justice Richards in a Winnipeg packing plant dispute in which the union demands for a 45 hour week were approved.

THE EFFECT of the interpretation of the ruling as made by the packing plants, he said, is to make over-time for any work done in excess of the forty-five hours week is that the men in the plants work only five or six hours the following week.

The union officer stated that members would be content with an eight hour day for five days a week with 8 hours work on Saturday, or would also accept a proposal for a nine hour day, five days a week but they do desire a schedule which will be maintained and which will give them their forty-five hour week.

"Queen" to Carry Canadian Troops For Time Being

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Accordingly allocation of shipping, the 85,000-ton Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth will continue to carry Canadian troops until further notice, Canadian military headquarters in London announced yesterday.

The statement was issued after the London Evening Standard printed a story stating that the Elizabeth was about to make her last voyage as a Canadian troop ship.

The statement described as "inaccurate" the Standard's estimate that 15,000 Canadian soldiers would be brought home on the ship each Wednesday from Southampton for New York. The actual allotment, the statement said, is 10,542.

Community Must Find Jobs, Homes For Returned Men

VICTORIA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Communities to which veterans return bear the final responsibility for finding employment for them, Hon. E. C. Weaver, minister in charge of ex-servicemen, Maj.-Gen. E. L. Burns, director-general of rehabilitation for the department of veterans affairs, who is visiting Victoria on an inspection tour, said yesterday.

Agreeing there had been some instances where vocational payments had been delayed, he said that this was being overcome by plans to have each vocational training councellor responsible for the cases he handled from the time of discharge through to payment of allowances.

He said that veterans should report promptly to the department any cases of delayed benefit payments.

Bermuda Allows Cars on Island

The extra early ripening of this and other short season districts, is of invaluable for canning. Can be planted early spot producing fine quality ripe fruit in much of the Northern States and Provincial varieties. Proved a sensation on the Prairies in 1944, 1945 and 1946, producing such distinct as Lethbridge and Brooks, Alta.; Indian Head, Sask.; Portage la Prairie, Brandon and Morden, Man. Around Calgary, Alberta, gardeners were simply amazed at the fine crops produced. Also in Edmonton, Alberta, gardeners were simply delighted with the crops produced. Early Chatham is claimed to produce ripe fruit 40 to 50 days earlier than other standard varieties. Fruit is of good size, 4 to 6 ounces, and produces 50% to 100% greater crops than other good earliest. Early Chatham is a heavy cropper, and can be planted as closely as two feet each way in plain rich soil, for larger specimens and finer table. (Pkt 15c) (oz 75c) postpaid.

Surplus Shown By UFA Co-Op.

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Operation of all branches of the UFA Central Co-Operative Association in 1945 resulted in goods to the value of $2,841,687.20 being sold, an increase of $548,604.79 over the previous year.

This was revealed in a report of the board of the UFA co-operative presented at this morning's session of the annual convention by Norman F. Priestley, manager.

OPERATIONS for the year ending Oct. 31, resulted in a surplus of $115,574.73.

Included in the co-operative during the year included sale of petroleum products, operation of the co-op store in Calgary, and additions to the Calgary store.

In spite of rationing, there has been a steady increase in gasoline distribution throughout the war years, with the exception of 1942. In the fiscal year 1945, a total of 6,459,295 gallons of gasoline was sold through the co-op.

Drew's Tax Stand Draws Criticism

Pleading that we should be Canadians first, and Albertans or Ontarians second, Elmer Roper, CCF provincial leader, has voiced sharp criticism of the proposals of Premier George Drew of Ontario that the provinces should stay in the taxation fields, which the Dominion suggests should be an exclusive federal source of income.

THESE INCLUDE the income and corporation taxes which have been levied by both federal and provincial governments, in return for which the Dominion would make annual payments to each province on a per capita basis.

"Statistics of income and corporation tax returns in 1940 indicate the need of sharing on a per capita basis. In that year, Saskatchewan collected about $2,000,000. In British Columbia with the same population, the amount realized from income and corporation levies was more than $12,000,000, Mr. Roper said.

"The Ontario and Alberta governments are quite right in demanding a larger per capita share of income and corporation taxes but if that is the principle of distribution on a per capita basis they will set back Canadian unity and progress," he commented.

Calls on West

commence soon on the company's unexplored claims.

The mining head congratulated the federal and provincial governments on their decision to construct an all-weather road between Grimshaw and Great Slave Lake but pointed out that this road will not be in service except for winter haulage, for some time in 1947.

HE ADVOCATED immediate action aimed at dredging the Athabaska river between Waterways and Fort Fitzgerald, keeping the stream free of sediment and sandbars that impede navigation during the summer season and thus prevent costly delays in water transportation of freight and supplies north.

Lowering of freight rates on the railway between Edmonton and Waterways is also essential to a really extensive development of the northern mining areas. Rates are still being charged on this rail line that should be charged only on a road still under construction, although the line has been in operation for many years, the president of Negus declared.

He advocated a planned campaign by chamber of commerce and businessmen to have the rates reduced.

PREDICTING that Yellowknife will likely have a population of between 7,000 and 10,000 within the next five years Mr. McCrea expressed the opinion that one of the "finest things that could happen" would be for some truly western interests to undertake exploration and development of some mining properties in the Yellowknife area.

"We in the east cannot understand why western businessmen do not take advantage of the opportunities in Yellowknife and the north. It is a national matter and should not be the exclusive concern of any province or section of the country", he said.

IF WESTERN mining firms were organized for the Yellowknife field, he felt certain the development of the north would speed up tremendously.

Mr. McCrea emphasized the richness of the Yellowknife area by pointing to the fact that gold values at the Negus mine had run as high as $40 to the ton. Many of the big western mines average only about $11 to the ton.

NEGUS PRODUCTION since the mine opened in February, 1939, has had a total value of $4,750,000. Due to wartime restrictions and shortages, the mine was closed between October of 1944 and July, 1945.

"Negus intends to keep pace with the big expansion in the Yellowknife area. We are unable to reveal all of our plans for the future at this time, but I can say we are hopeful of starting additional mines at some of the 200 claims we are now investigating," he said.

"THE WEST has reached a point in its development never before attained," the mining president continued.

Ahead lies a great period of advancement and progress and mining is certain to play a great part. Although mining is a hazardous game it is one that makes an enormous contribution to the development of Canada's internal economy. The total value of products from Canada's mines has now reached $11,000,000,000.

"THERE ARE abundant minerals in the ground and adequate power resources in the north. There is also no lack of daring on the part of the pioneers of mining. Gold mining has a particular appeal because it is not a competitive branch of mining. It pays high wages and makes a substantial contribution to the exchequer of Canada.

"All that is now required to bring on an unprecedented development of the northern mineral resources is an equitable taxation policy and lower transportation costs.

"It should be a policy that would permit development of many small mines rather than one that would confine the industry to a few companies and thus deter the enthusiasm of Canada's mining stalwarts."

"IF THESE STEPS are taken millions in new wealth will pour out of Yellowknife to factories, clothing merchants, other businesses and insurance firms for all the incidentals of civilization.

"If there was ever a time in Canada's history when she should expand her internal economy it is now, on the heels of the prosperous wartime economy. Canada can do this best by expanding her mining industry," Mr. McCrea concluded.

In addition to being minister of mines in Ontario for 11 years, Mr. McCrea also headed the department of fish and game.

Besides heading the Negus company, he is also president of the Toronto General Trust Corporation and chairman of the board of the Mining Corp. of Canada.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They burn and lose—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisonous and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Doan's Kidney Pills. IN WASHINGTON, President Truman attributed the slow-down in demobilization to "the critical need for troops overseas," and said he was convinced that both Army and navy were demobilizing "with commendable efficiency and with justice to all concerned."

"The future of our country," the President said, "now is as much at stake as it was in the days of the war."

THE NECESSITY of building a firm foundation for world peace and the enormous size of the demobilization job both make it impossible to discharge every member of the armed forces promptly," he said.

The army had let out more than 4,750,000 of the 8,500,000 men and women in service when fighting stopped in Europe, the navy had discharged close to 1,250,000 of its peak of 3,500,000, the marines more than 183,000 out of nearly 486,000, the coast guard more than 74,000 out of 180,000.

Sask. Brief

federal grants based on a $12 per capita subsidy.

The 86-page document, following Ontario's blunt rejection of federal financial proposals by three days, also outlined in detail the Saskatchewan government's viewpoint and made a number of counter proposals including:

1. Amendments to the British North America act affecting the fields of labor, treaty obligations and control of marketing.

2. Program of municipal projects and development of natural resources.

3. A 21-project public works program for Saskatchewan totalling almost $19,000,000.

4. Power for Canada to amend her own constitution.

5. Cancellation of all provincial treasury bills in respect to relief and similar obligations of the provinces.

THE BRIEF EXPRESSED disappointment that the Sirois commission report had not been made the basis for discussion at the Dominion-provincial conference and that instead, financial support to the provinces in the form of subsidies based on population as shown in the 1941 census, had been proposed.

This, the brief said, "represents an abandonment of the national outlook and a partial capitulation to sectionalism and provincialism".

The Saskatchewan government believed such a system would result in an unequal standard of social services to the various provinces.

WE DO NOT LIKE the proposed "per capita" method of calculating subsidies to the provinces, although we are still prepared to yield exclusive jurisdiction to the dominion in respect to the three tax fields mentioned in the proposals, providing financial agreements for the provinces can be reached," the brief said.

"Although we would prefer the formula of the Sirois report to the present proposals of the Dominion, nevertheless we are prepared to accept the per capita subsidy—or some modification thereof—provided two definite principles are likewise agreed to by the Dominion and the other provinces.

THE FIRST PRINCIPLE was recognition of the adjustment grant based on fiscal need as a supplement to the proposed per capita subsidy. The brief said the proposed Dominion subsidy would "not be sufficient to enable the province to provide educational and social services up to the Canadian average without resorting to taxation far more severe than the Canadian average based on capacity to pay."

Saskatchewan's government looked to "the type of subsidy for all the provinces calculated on the basis of fiscal need which will look to the maintenance of services in all the provinces in good years and in bad years, up to the Canadian average." Each province within the field of its constitutional limitations and obligations, would have a choice as to the manner in which the subsidy should be spent.

"WE FELT that we may reasonably be insistent regarding this adjustment grant," the brief said. "And it may be added that we are prepared to prove that our present provincial and municipal tax burden is far heavier than the Canadian average and that it is perhaps the heaviest in Canada.

"We do not relish the prospect of being compelled to continue a provincial consumer's tax, known in Saskatchewan as the education tax, in order that our social services may come appreciably close to the Canadian average."

THE SECOND financial principle of the brief said the government felt it must insist on adequate provision for the security of self-employed such as Saskatchewan's 195,000 farmers. It suggested this might take the form of a guaranteed floor under the prices or some equivalent arrangement and a crop insurance scheme, or alternately, an extension of the present benefits of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act.

"If these two principles are endorsed, the province of Saskatchewan is prepared to accept the Dominion proposals and enter into an agreement based thereon," the brief said, adding:

"That does not mean that we subscribe without reservation to all the other proposals. But we feel that agreement can be reached on all other matters through informal discussion at the committee stage.

"THERE IS certainly no detail in the other proposals which should prove a serious stumbling block to the concluding of an amicable and progressive agreement. But we wish to emphasize that the principles put forward in this part "of the brief" are deemed to be fundamental."

In a foreword to the bulky document, Premier Douglas said his government's proposals "are not advanced in any spirit of driving a bargain but with a full appreciation of our responsibility not only to the proposal of Saskatchewan but also to the national welfare of Canada.

"We believe that this attitude alone can make possible the social and economic adjustments so essential if we are to cope with the problems of the post-war era".

IN ITS GENERAL proposals the brief suggested a method for amending the Canadian constitution in Canada might be found through joint action of the Canadian parliament and a stated number of provinces.

It also urged action to procure abolition of appeals to the judicial committee of the privy council and a number of specific amendments to the British North American Act including:

1. That major control over labor and labor relations be given the Dominion.

2. That the Canadian parliament be given power to implement treaty obligations.

3. An amendment making clear that legislative jurisdiction may be delegated by the Dominion parliament to a provincial parliament and vice versa.

4. Constitutional changes to obtain effective control over marketing by designated governmental agencies.

ALSO RECOMMENDED was the "fullest possible use of the Hudson's Bay Railway as a means of reducing the cost of living in western Canada and facilitating increased trade."

(The Canadian National Railways Hudson Bay line runs from Churchill, Man., southwestward and joins the main CNR line at Yorkton, Sask.)

The Saskatchewan government was prepared to co-operate to the limit with the Dominion's proposals for a public investment program in Canada and in the field of agriculture it recommended legislative action to provide a bulwark against falling prices and falling income resulting from the hazards of nature. The brief asked, too, that the wheat board be continued and that similar operations be extended to include other grains and livestock end its products.

THE FEDERAL government should be given jurisdiction over marketing of cereal grains, livestock and livestock products, the brief said.

Saskatchewan welcomed Dominion proposals in the field of national health and urged "full consideration of health proposals irrespective of whether or not agreement is reached on the other federal projects.

In the fields of social services and education the brief urged Dominion responsibility for such welfare services as family allowances, unemployment insurance and old age pensions, and a brief plan of federal assistance for educational purposes.

Groom Arraigned After Accident

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 9.—(CP)—Milburn Rogers Stinchcombe was arraigned yesterday on a charge of manslaughter after two members of his wedding party were killed in an automobile accident Monday at nearby Louisville. He reserved plea and was released on bail of $3,000. Stinchcombe and his bride were among three persons injured in the accident. The accident occurred just after the wedding when the car left the highway on a curve and rolled over after crashing into a tree.

Ahead of Schedule

Canada Occupation Troops Through Overseas March 31

By WILLIAM BOSS

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Canada's commitment of an occupational role in Germany will be terminated next March 31, three months earlier than previously reported, it was indicated by sources here last night.

(AT OTTAWA there was no comment from army or air force headquarters or the external affairs department).

The army occupation force — an outsize, reformed 3rd division under Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes — is made up of about 25,000 officers and men. There are another 10,000 men in the occupation RCAF.

There now is reason to believe Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters have been told to prepare to replace the Canadians as repatriation of the occupation force is scheduled to end March 31.

THE DATE commonly mentioned hitherto for the withdrawal of the CAOF was June 30.

A recent hint of the occupation forces might came home this year was given Dec. 23 in a Christmas message from Prime Minister Mackenzie King. He said:

"We are eagerly looking forward to welcoming in the new year those of your number who, at the close of the old year, may still be serving in the army of occupation in Europe, or who may be on their way back to Canada from former theatres of war."

THERE ALSO HAD been other reports about the fate of the force. One was that it would be replaced by a force of brigade size this spring and a second that members of the Veterans Guard might be used overseas.

There had been announcement from Ottawa indicating that members of the interim force, now being recruited, might be asked to do occupation force service along with low-score men.

ONLY ABOUT 5,000 men volunteered for service in the occupation division and the remainder was made up for the most part of men with point scores under 50. Certain key officers and men were also selected for service with the force.

A program of rotation leave by which the men with longer service would be given 30 clear days' leave in Canada had been inaugurated and on Dec. 3 it was announced new NCOs were being trained to release high-point non-volunteers for repatriation.

The force was organized in May when it was indicated army men—NRMA and otherwise—then in training in Canada would eventually see service.

A STATEMENT at that time said the force would at the beginning be made up largely of short service personnel then overseas and added that any surplus short service personnel at home would likely be used to reinforce the longer service men in the occupation force.

Last October, four and a half months after VE-Day, the occupation force was keeping an eye on 100,000 soldiers of the German army in northwest Germany—members of the 25th Army which surrendered to the 1st Canadian Army.

ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press war correspondent, who toured the occupation area at that time, reported: "There has not been the slightest trouble and Germans who fought the Canadians so fiercely in battle now are as meek as sheep."

He said the Canadians were charged with maintaining law and order throughout an area between the mouth of the Ems and Weser rivers, centering on Oldenburg and also a zone running as far south as Osnabrueck. The area of control included the Priesian Islands where Canadian supply of the occupation force blew up heavily fortified positions.

IT WAS REPORTED Nov. 29 from London that if the force were continued it would be replaced by permanent force personnel by the end of this year.

About the only disclosures on the RCAF occupation force has been that two of its bomber squadrons are the Lion and Bison units which are operating from Yorkshire bases. It was recently reported here however that rotation leave had not been inaugurated for the RCAF because of the expected withdrawal in the spring.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a brief statement here today, said the length of service of the Canadian occupation force in Germany is a matter of consideration between the Canadian and British governments, but no final decision has been reached.

More and more it is becoming evident that public criticism of the $2,000 tax-free salary hoist which the members of the House of Commons granted themselves at the last session of parliament is growing in intensity, and with the criticism is an awakening interest in all sections of the country on the question of Retiring Allowances or Old Age Pensions for all Canadians. The contrast of members already in receipt of a salary of $4,000 a year granting themselves an additional $2,000 a year, tax free, and Old Age pensioners at 70 trying to struggle through their declining years on a pittance of, at best, $30 a month, is too glaring for even an apathetic public, and certainly for a public which is aroused and angry.

Some years ago Hon. T. D. Pattullo, then premier of British Columbia, strongly advocated that all Canadians should be paid a retiring allowance irrespective of income. He argued that in those cases where the recipients did not require a pension in order to give them a decent standard of living, the Income Taxes would certainly recover it for the crown, so that only those Canadians who actually required this assistance would benefit by it. The great beauty of this plan was that there was no Means Test; there was not the slightest taint of charity; it was a right of all Canadians to receive this allowance on reaching retirement age.

And it can be done, and should be done —NOW. Not years hence, but this year. Fifty dollars a month at sixty years of age for all Canadians can be paid just as easily as the present inadequate dole at seventy, and it can be paid as a retiring allowance and not as an Old Age Pension, with benefit to all and a burden on none.

The worst feature of the system now in vogue is that it penalizes the thrifty and hard-working. Why should an old age if it means that if by your own efforts you own a home and have a little put by for later years, you are debarred from the benefits of Old Age Pensions? Why buy Victory bonds if their possession in later years means that you cannot qualify, under the present system, for an Old Age Pension? Why not spend everything you earn now, knowing that if you have nothing you can be the recipient of a pension, Why be penalized because you have been thrifty?

The Pattullo plan would lift a load of anxiety from everyone's shoulders. It would let every Canadian know that he or she has to work for all Canadians, and let all Canadians know they would have a right to share in the product of that work —not as a dole, but as an earned right.

And it would also provide thousands of returned men, now in the prime of life, with good jobs and a chance to make their own future, by making it possible for tens of thousands of 60-year-old workers to retire NOW and make room for younger men in all walks of life.

Leave the Doors Open

A committee of the Dominion Government is to hear representations from men engaged in industrial operations, on matters affecting trade and tariffs. Mainly, it may be assumed, the committee will hear arguments as to why tariffs affecting certain kinds of manufactured goods should not be reduced—or should even be raised.

That has been the standing theme of Industrialists who have appeared before other investigating bodies. There is no reason to suppose the manufacturers now intend to argue that the tariffs on their particular products should be cut down.

Finance Minister Ilsley expressed doubt that these hearings should be open to the public. Discussion of tariff changes, he thought, might be "less frank" if carried on openly and reported in the newspapers. This is quite possible. But if the Minister thinks it likely, that is a strong reason why the discussing should not be done behind closed doors. If the industrialists have things to say which they do not want the public to hear, or if the committee members are inclined to listen to such representations, the purpose in appointing the committee is obscure.

The tariff is a tax, though only part of the proceeds go into the public treasury. Where the rates are high enough to be protective, the treasury sometimes gets only the small change, and the bulk of the ralsed* goes into the coffers of the protected industries.

Because the tariff is a tax, the public have a right to know not only that the tax is imposed, but why it is imposed. A manufacturer who wants more protection, or who objects to his present protection being reduced, owes it to the public to show why he needs this concession, what it contributes to the general welfare in return, and also that he does not or will not abuse the concession by overcharging his customers.

These are things which there should not be any hesitation about stating in public. In any case they are things which the public have a right to know, and which the Government should not be a party to keeping from them. The committee should therefore hold its hearings with the doors open and the reporters present. To hear the representations in camera would arouse suspicion that the industrialists were asking for something they were not entitled to and that the ministers were minded to help them put it over.

A Tribute to Canada

The Moscow conference named Canada as one country which should have a seat on the atomic council, whether or not the Dominion has a seat also on the Security Council.

No other country was given this preference. All the other members of the atomic control body will be such in virtue of their places on the Security Council. This distinction came to the Dominion because it is the major source of uranium, without which the energy of the atom cannot be released by any known method.

But the conferees did not have to single Canada out for nomination on that account. They were under no legal or other compulsion to do so. Under the Charter, which Canada has already endorsed, raw materials of all kinds are to be made available to all nations. Even without that commitment, nothing could be less likely than that Canada would try to block international control of atomic energy—of which it is a joint-proposer—or hold back supplies of uranium for industrial uses.

Nominating Canada to the control council was a graceful act on the part of the conference, which we should not fail to appreciate. It can be taken as recognition of the part the Dominion played in the war, and of the eagerness of its government and people to aid in banishing the new dread that has come to the world with the discovery of how to loose the force of disintegration.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

Future Success of Canada May Depend On—

Dominion-Provincial Negotiations

Reconstruction, Employment, Social Security and Social Services All Involved in Settlement by Conference of Questions Affecting Canada and All Nine Provinces

By Grant Dexter

OTTAWA.—There is a surprisingly general tendency to appraise the current dominion-provincial negotiations as relating to an abstract constitutional question. Many seem to think the matter under discussion is no more than another dominion-provincial deal.

So to think is wholly to misjudge the problem. It may seem an extravagant statement, and yet it is not greatly over-colored, to say that the future success of this country depends upon the outcome of the negotiations. Failure would be a disaster. A make-shift settlement would be about as satisfactory as hay wire repairs to a broken-down automobile. Success would clear the path ahead. It would not, of course, mean roses all the way. But it would mean that this country could face the future and the problems which time will bring with confidence.

The collapse of the under-pinning of our federal system in the early 1930's has never been repaired. The emergency which led to the Sirois commission deepened in the war; was met temporarily by wartime expedients; will become unbearable in post-war years unless adequately met. The Sirois commission was well aware of this: "If some adjustment of Canadian economic life appeared sufficiently urgent to lead to the appointment of the commission in time of peace," reads the report (1940), "how much more urgent is it in time of war? How much more urgent will it be in the critical transition from war to peace again?"

Viewed from the national standpoint, the case for agreement falls naturally into two phases: first, the hard inescapable reality of the existing situation; second the problems to be faced if constructive employment, social security and social services generally. In no possible way can either be evaded.

While the Sirois commission basically worked in the somewhat narrow field of Dominion-provincial relations, its findings were plainly related to larger considerations. This is evident in the text of the report page 100, where the advantages of concentrating in the hands of the Parliament of Canada the sole responsibility for deficit financing for special public works programs, for unemployment debt retirement in periods of prosperity, are noted. Every aspect of what is referred to as the theory of cyclical budgetting is set down in the report.

But the commission could not possibly foresee the extent to which the war would aggravate the basic problem. The report was written when peacetime Dominion expenditures, 1939, stood at $553 millions and revenues at $502 millions; when the national debt stood at $3,600,000,000 had just been spent; when the funded debt stood at $3.6 billions and the carrying charges thereon at $128 millions per year. People were still thinking in terms of the First Great War when our total war expenditures were less than $2 billions.

The hard reality of today is that in the current fiscal year the Dominion's expenditures are estimated at $4,650 millions; revenues at $2,515 millions. The funded debt, last March 31, stood at $13,951 millions and the carrying charges were $351 millions per year. The recent victory loan has added greatly both to the total debt and the carrying charges. On March 31, next, the debt would be close to $16 billions and the carrying charges in excess of $400 millions.

Expenditures on this vast scale, of course, will not continue but when the emergency is over, the Dominion's normal budget will be not less than $1,750 millions or half a billion more than the pre-war budget would still be so great as to require to be financed in such a manner as not to cripple the productive capacity of the country. And this will only be possible if a satisfactory settlement of Dominion-provincial financial relations is achieved.

This over-abbreviated summary illustrates what is meant by the reality of the present position.

How is the Dominion to collect the taxes which will be required to finance the national budget? After all, Mr. Micawber's dictum holds as true of nations as of individuals. Expenditure must be kept within you earn is indeed, the path to misery. If the Dominion is compelled to rely for revenue upon indirect, regressive taxes—like sales tax, customs duties, excise taxes—the burden on business and on individuals will be intolerable. The only way in which such vast needs can be met is by direct or progressive taxes—the income and corporation taxes and succession duties. These taxes are based upon capacity to pay. They are taxes on profits accruing after the business has been done, not on business in the course of transaction. Even so, they will be a serious burden and a discouragement to initiative until such times as Dominion expenditures decline or the national income increases.

It is the old story of a man and his burden. If you strap a heavy load to a man's leg or arm, or point it off-balance on one shoulder—progress is difficult and soon becomes impossible. But if the load is wise insupportable burden is carefully balanced and securly fastened, it can be carried.

The only possible way in which this country can shoulder the burden which has to be shouldered is by progressive taxes.

It may be asked: But what of the provinces? Have they not also heavy responsibilities? The answer is simple. There is no province which has not materially improved its position as a result of the war. The provinces have great responsibilities but their need for revenue could be complied with that of the Dominion. The report was written when the Dominion expenditures, 1939, stood at $553 millions and revenues at $502 millions; when the national debt stood at $3,600,000,000 had just been spent; when the funded debt stood at $3.6 billions and the carrying charges thereon at $128 millions per year. People were still thinking in terms of the First Great War when our total war expenditures were less than $2 billions.

The hard reality of today is that in the current fiscal year the Dominion's expenditures are estimated at $4,650 millions; revenues at $2,515 millions. The funded debt, last March 31, stood at $13,951 millions and the carrying charges were $351 millions per year. The recent victory loan has added greatly both to the total debt and the carrying charges. On March 31, next, the debt would be close to $16 billions and the carrying charges in excess of $400 millions.

Expenditures on this vast scale, of course, will not continue but when the emergency is over, the Dominion's normal budget will be not less than $1.750 millions or half a billion more than the pre-war budget would still be so great as to require to be financed in such a manner as not to cripple the productive capacity of the country. And this will only be possible if a satisfactory settlement of Dominion-provincial financial relations is achieved.

This over-abbreviated summary illustrates what is meant by the reality of the present position.

How is the Dominion to collect the taxes which will be required to finance the national budget? After all, Mr. Micawber's dictum holds as true of nations as of individuals. Expenditure must be kept within you earn is indeed, the path to misery. If the Dominion is compelled to rely for revenue upon indirect, regressive taxes—like sales tax, customs duties, excise taxes—the burden on business and on individuals will be intolerable. The only way in which such vast needs can be met is by direct or progressive taxes—the income and corporation taxes and succession duties. These taxes are based upon capacity to pay. They are taxes on profits accruing after the business has been done, not on business in the course of transaction. Even so, they will be a serious burden and a discouragement to initiative until such times as Dominion expenditures decline or the national income increases.

It is the old story of a man and his burden. If you strap a heavy load to a man's leg or arm, or point it off-balance on one shoulder—progress is difficult and soon becomes impossible. But if the load is wise insupportable burden is carefully balanced and securly fastened, it can be carried.

The only possible way in which this country can shoulder the burden which has to be shouldered is by progressive taxes.

It may be asked: But what of the provinces? Have they not also heavy responsibilities? The answer is simple. There is no province which has not materially improved its position as a result of the war. The provinces have great responsibilities but their need for revenue could be complied with that of the Dominion-provincial negotiation in such a way as to make the combined burden bearable.

The last war, the direct one, was shared by the Dominion and the provinces—two income taxes, two corporation taxes, two succession duties. While most taxpayers will remember the result of double taxation even in pre-war days of relatively low rates, the facts are worth recalling in view of the possibility of failure in the present negotiations.

(This is the first of three articles on the Dominion's case in the present Dominion-provincial negotiating against inflation that it caused the Washington Post to exclaim "Only a fool or a wrecker could be to be forewarned by the Christmas spectacle."

Enlightened Management Knows Laborer Is—

Worthy of His Hire

But Labor, Consumer and Investor Have for Too Long Been Victims of Unscrupulous Financial Manipulators Who Must Be Eliminated From Operating Management

By H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the Vancouver Province

There is a dictum that conveys a simple, yet profound principle in labor-employer relations. The worker is entitled to a fair and equitable share in results of the combined factors that enter into cost of production and in profits resulting from production.

This concept lies at the very root of modern dissatisfaction of organized labor. The worker sees an element of injustice in the distribution of results of combined efforts of labor, management and invested capital. His conviction is that too large a share goes in returns on capital investment, that the worker is given only that minimum which through organization he is able to extract.

As a result labor strives constantly for higher wages, shorter hours and improved conditions. Failing to gain these, he tends to slow down the productive efforts. A bricklayer will lay only so many bricks in a day; a riveter will drive only a limited number of rivets; a machine tender will produce only a stated number of units.

OFTEN MANAGEMENT knows that the worker could do more without overstrain, and he finds that costs are up, which in many cases results in loss of markets.

This sort of wrangling always results in hard feelings on both sides. The trouble is that neither party to the dispute is approaching the problem from a just or reasonable angle.

Is there ground for the conviction that the worker is not getting, as a class, an equitable share of results of his labor? I believe there is considerable support for his point of view, but not to the extent that unscrupulous and selfish leaders would have his followers believe.

There is nothing sinister about the term "capital" in its true sense. Workers are capitalists. They are today possessed of about a billion dollars in Victory Bonds—the most liquid form of credit we know. This could be used by them collectively, or in groups, to finance any undertaking they might choose. If so used, it is capital. Stockholders in an incorporated company use their savings in this way, and when so used it is beneficial.

The trouble arises when professional financiers and promoters manipulate credit, or the savings of others, to their own benefit. This practice is not wholly condoned by the majority of bona fide operating business men.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE here to enter into lengthy analysis of corporate operations in Canada, but a report of a committee to Parliament a few years ago told a damning story. It reported an analysis of 131 consolidations, which showed that only one out of the 131 lived up to its prospectus. It stated that 16 had failed; 48 showed deficits; 21 showed declining profits, and only 15 showed consistently good earnings.

Furthermore out of $292,000,000 bonds and preferred shares sold only about $10,000,000 carried voting rights. That is, the promoters reserved voting rights to a small amount of common stock.

Obviously the quarrel of the worker is not with innumerable investors who exercise no control over these corporations, but with the promoter. Nor is the quarrel with the technical staff who operate these plants. Operating management and workers have common cause, if they could but see it. The nigger in the woodpile is invariably the financial promoter who controls voting power.

The problem facing operating management is to earn enough to pay interest on bonds and dividends on stock, all too frequently on watered stock. In his struggle to do this he finds it necessary and it necessary to keep costs down. Only too often this is done by resisting demand for increased wages.

THIS VICIOUS CIRCLE results in sour dissatisfaction among workers with resultant lowering of efficiency in employer-labor relations. The obvious method to pursue is to determine what is real investment, upon which a reasonable return should be paid, and what is a fair "per-man" production, and then ensure that he be paid accordingly.

There are three legitimate factors or interests—labor, consumer and investor. These have a common interest, but have, to a degree, been victims of unscrupulous financial manipulators. The elimination of the latter ought to be the first concern of labor, of operating management and the investor.

Christmas Shopping in U.S. Has—

Officials Worried

See in Prices Paid in December Buying Spree Distinct Signs of Inflation Threat and Are Shocked

By W. R. Clarke

WASHINGTON.—Price administration officials are badly worried as they look back over December retail sales and study the figures which measure how far the spirit of inflation has advanced. The Christmas shopping spree, apparently in all the larger cities of the U.S., was such that public officials and newspapers refer to it as "shocking" while it was in progress and pleaded for restraint. It was unprecedented in dollar quantity, poor quality of goods, extravagant prices and especially in the utter abandon of the shoppers, the feverish fervor with which they got rid of their money.

Some sample prices: Standard $1 to $2 items of costume jewelry sold for $10 to $15; silver handled shaving brushes went for $125; knitted woollen vests, said to be imported, of a type usually sold for $4.50 to $7.50 in both Canada and the U.S., had a Christmas price tag of $40 and sold freely; neckties at $15. And so on through a long list mostly of gaudy but shoddy goods. No durable items such as radios or washing machines were available.

It had been expected sales would drop this year because of mounting unemployment, strikes and an anticipated tendency to view the future with uncertainty. Instead, officials estimates are that sales figures have just about doubled those of 1939 and would have been higher had more goods been available.

A SUBSTANTIAL PART of the increase is in prices but the hidden inflation in quality deterioration is enormous as well. The shoddiest kind of articles, glamorized by bright color and gilt, were offered and grabbed, articles so poor that the recipients, as one merchant said, would be ashamed of them.

American newspapers have referred to the Christmas shopping spree as "shocking" especially as to "the impetuosity of the buying urge in the face of shortages of goods."

The measure of the job Price Administrator Bowles will have on his hands during the coming year is revealed, first, by the psychological condition shown in December retail buying and, second, by the accumulation of cash in public hands. In the fall of 1939 currency in circulation was $7,200,000,000 and in mid-November this year it was $28,400,000,000. Checking accounts in 1939 were $27,400,000,000 and this December stood at $69,000,000,000. In addition there are savings accounts and government bonds easily convertible running into many thousands of millions of dollars.

The buying spree drew from Mr. Bowles such an empressive warning against inflation that it caused the Washington Post to exclaim "Only a fool or a wrecker could be to be forewarned by the Christmas spectacle."

Naive Siam

UNITED KINGDOM
INFORMATION OFFICE

Before the war relations between the United Kingdom and Siam were very cordial, though in the years immediately preceding the war the rising Nationalist and Fascist tendency of the Pibul government gave cause for anxiety. Then in 1940 the Siamese government took the initiative of urging the United Kingdom government to conclude a pact of non-aggression with Siam. The United Kingdom government assented and a pact was signed on June 12, 1940.

On January 28, 1942, seven weeks after Japan's attack on the U.S., Siam declared war on Britain and followed this up by accepting the gift from Japan of four states in North Malaya and two Shan states in Burma. Siam also acquiesced in the Japanese maltreatment of British nationals and the plunder of British property.

Nonetheless, after Japan's defeat the Siamese government took upon itself to announce that Siam's declaration of war on the United Kingdom was illegal and consequently null and void. The Siamese claim was in fact, that Siam should not be treated as having been an enemy of Britain.

It was, to say the least, a novel procedure for a defeated nation to ask for a country which had entered the war on the losing side to seek to evade the consequences by a mere stroke of the pen.

The normal way of ending war is for the victor to conclude a peace treaty with the vanquished in which terms are so drafted as to ensure that the defeated enemy shall not again resort to war.

"Yes, I am," confessed the banker, "Good," said the client. "That's what I'm paying you six per cent for."

Two little children were playing. One pretended that she wanted to rent the other's playhouse.

"How much you any parents?" the playhouse owner asked.

"Yes," said the other little girl, "Two."

"I'm so sorry," said the little landlady. "I never rent to children with parents. They're so destructive."

The Flag

Editor Bulletin: One of your correspondents wrote recently "The Canadian ensign is the flag of the British merchant marine and is unworthy of adoption as Canada's national flag."

I am not one who has any particular opinion about our national flag other than that we should have one right away. Therefore I am not prejudiced. But if your correspondent had travelled three times across the Atlantic in wartime under the Red Ensign; if he had had just a word or two with anyone of Europe's starving millions; or if he had even talked for a short time with a sailor of any nationality; then he would not have said that the Red Ensign is unworthy of adoption as our Canadian flag.

Legion's Thanks

Editor Bulletin: Through the columns of your paper, I would like to thank you and your staff, and also the staff of CJCA and CFRN and the stations, for all the help on the Monday previous to Christmas, in getting the parcels ready for the boys in hospital.

For the grand assistance and cooperation that I received from the fore-mentioned parties, and the general public.

As we had over two thousand parcels to distribute it was quite a job for me to thank them all, I am sure that it could not have been such a success if it had not been for the cooperation of you and the general public.

Thanking you again.

That $2,000 Raise

Editor Bulletin: Can someone more versed in these matters explain the cause of the unceasing callous discrimination against the plea for a more just pension for our needy oldsters? Recently we visualized the connemptible, undignified spectacle of our well fed, well paid, and amply fleshed parliamentary representatives pounding their desks in applause at the prospect of a substantial raise in salary. Our servicemen have been treated with a commendable liberality, and rightly so, yet when the question of raising the miserly allowance meted to the aged pensioners is brought to the vote, we shall behold the Ottawa stalwarts protest with mouthy might and main, and the measure inevitably abetted by the fortunate ancients occupying the senatorial palatial Seniority Home.

Why not emulate the Hitler methods—dispatch the unwanted aged in a gas chamber, it would be merciful compared to semi-starvation endured by many.

Sad Cases

Editor Bulletin: Not being an old-age pensioner, I have no personal motive in taking up the cudgels with regard to the utter lack of consideration given to the old age pensioners.

They are undernourished on the present pension. By the time they pay, at the lowest, $12 a month for a room, which in many cases is not even heated, they have nothing left for the necessities.

One pensioner told me that she could not visit her doctor twice a week as she had not the carfare. They have always been made to feel that they are a charge on society. A friend of mine told me that when visited by a government representative periodically she was put through such a barrage of questions that she felt physically ill. Before the last her money she had paid taxes.

Surely a government that can afford to give the children of well-to-do parents enough to live on, for each child, without making any compliment of it, could give old pensioners a parcel enough to live on. The dependents' allowance in many cases is not at all necessary, and is spent on luxuries, not necessities. Surely parents getting free education for their children can afford to keep them without the aid of the government. Every other country but Canada makes proper provision for its old people. Why is it that we are lacking in that respect?

Quiet Celebration for Albertans in England

(The following delayed letter was received by The Edmonton Bulletin from Phil Allen, former Edmonton newspaper correspondent for the newspaper at North Battleford. Allen is now LAC. P. E. Allen of No. 4 RCAF Band, "R" Depot, Torquay, Devon, Eng.)

BY PHIL ALLEN

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the billet—well, there's not much stirring except for a couple of airmen getting themselves decked for a "do" in all the spit and polish that veterans, such as we are at this repatriation centre can after three or four years of war.

ANOTHER MAN IS opening a lonely parcel that arrived during the day and in an inquisitive manner digs to the bottom of the carton leaving a varied assortment of foodstuffs in his wake on the bunk. A box of Canadian candy is passed around to those of us who received letters but unfortunately missed out on the parcels.

Our home, somewhat different to the one we had a year ago on an active bomber station, is an unfurnished hotel. The only remaining glory of the place lies in its name, the Templedene, and at one time it catered to the aristocracy common to these southern summer resorts; now its customers are the aristocrats of the air force who, with their post-war attitudes, hardly look the part. Their one concern is to board a ship headed into the rising sun of a Canadian morn.

THE WALLS ARE bare, except for someone's drawings of "Vargas." A fireplace, much in need of fire, offsets the bareness of the east wall. A light bulb tries hard to illuminate the large room while an enamelled sink in a corner completes the domestic picture.

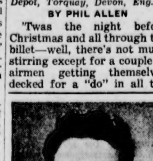

The atmosphere, with its lack of snow, does not suggest Christmas. The abundant, almost tropical growth about the rocks and crags surrounding the city make memories of a white Christmas seem like vague dreams. Acute shortages of ornaments, bright articles and the necessary toys doesn't help the situation.

OUR MESS HALL is bedecked with bits of red and green decorations that someone has hoarded. Signs, written on the wall in chalk, indicate the time that turkey (we hope) will be shrved by officers-turned-vassals for the hallowed day. Two kegs of beer wait for the removal of their plugs to ensure the boys a good time. The sight of these latter articles suggests that even if the dinner is chicken or spam as a last resort, the aftermath beside the kegs should be hearty anyway.

This, I know, will be our last Christmas shared with the English people who although suffering no great offerings for the remnants of a conquering army, have extended the hand of hospitality generously.

AS I SIT IN this none-to-warm room under the watchful eye of my silent friend the dim light bulb, I wonder whether next Christmas will be a little brighter and gayer. For we have all earned, that small but significan wish.

So now I shall make for the nearest pub, enjoy a toast to the festive season and the New Year—and then to the nearest dance.

Says British Won't Emigrate Following War

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—(CP)—There will not be the great flow of immigrants into Canada from Great Britain after the last war as there was after the First Great War, Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, British lord president of the council, said yesterday at a press conference.

EMIGRATION, HE SAID, came from the natural increase in population but Britain's "blessed birth-rate is not what it should be." Without the pressure of over-population and with poverty less prevalent after the Second Great War, fewer British people will seek to emigrate.

"I favor emigration," he said. "I think it is a grand thing in general, but it becomes disputable when the birth rate is down. However, we'll play ball, and will help ex-servicemen who may want to migrate to the Dominions."

"IF IS SERVICEMEN mainly who want to emigrate at the present. They've knocked about a bit and have seen the dominions as they like them."

Social legislation is being introduced coincidentally with economic legislation, he said, in order to balance Britain's income and production. Industry must be adapted to new conditions and new demands.

There is nothing ulterior to his visit like loans, tariffs or imports, he said in answer to an oft-put question.

"DO YOU BELIEVE Canada should stop building ships, as one British shipbuilder has declared?" he was asked.

"I don't blame the shipbuilder. Naturally he'd like his competitor to stop, but you're not going to get an answer from me. If I started telling Canada what she should do, I would deserve a poke on the nose!"

Though the conference steered along serious lines, Mr. Morrison declined to comment on British economics, foreign policy and the fascist group.

MORE THAN 100 executive members, business agents and representatives of CIO and AFL unions in Toronto met Mr. Morrison at an afternoon reception.

Mr. Morrison discussed growth of British trade unionism in the war period and traced the role of unions in the British Labor Party. The object of his government and organized labor was to increase production in public-owned industries and increase purchasing power.

He said he believes British labor faces five or six arduous years but expressed confidence the government's goal of full employment will be reached.

Today in Europe

sian Communist party was only little more than 3,000,000 strong. It represented about 5 per cent of the Russian population. The National Socialist party in Germany had about 4,000,000 members before the war. It represented some 6 per cent of the population. In both these totalitarian countries, the party was an effective instrument of the government.

IN ITALY, ON THE OTHER hand, membership in the Fascist party was nearly 6,000,000 or about 15 per cent of the total population. Nearly one-third of all adult males were party members. Membership was obligatory for all officials and, in effect, obligatory for anyone who aspired to even the smallest business enterprise.

In fact, the only adult male Italians who did not belong to the party were: priests, who were especially exempted under terms of Mussolini's Vatican Concordat; very rich men, who could afford to disregard Mussolini's wishes; a few high-minded idealists and members of liberal convictions for which they were prepared to suffer; and a much larger number of poor, pathetic citizens who were ambitionless and did not aspire to better their lot in this world.

The large, unwieldy, amorphous party which Mussolini recruited could not compare in efficiency with the tightly organized, highly disciplined party of zealots with which Hitler once ruled Germany and with which Stalin rules over Russia. The inferiority of Musolini's organization was shown by the comparative ease with which he was deposed and arrested by his own associates as soon as things started to go badly for Italy.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that a one-party government, to be successful, must be based as in Germany and Russia on a highly disciplined nucleus of highly indoctrinated partisans. Stalin is showing recognition of this fact in the current purge of the Russian Communist party. During the war, to ensure the fidelity of the Red Army, large numbers of politically untrained war heroes were admitted to the party, and its ranks were swollen to nearly 6,000,000. Now a careful political re-examination is occurring and hundreds of thousands are being weeded out.

The Italian Fascist party was never a very responsible organization. Many Italians, particularly women, joined for frivolous or inconsequential reasons. One woman I know became a party member in order to open a dress shop. Another volunteered to serve as a nurse when Italy entered the war but was told she could not work in a military hospital unless she became a Fascist; so she joined the party.

IT CAN BE SEEN FROM the foregoing plain that to try and exclude from all governmental posts all Italians who ever were members of the Fascist party would be to destroy the whole system of Italian administration. Recently, Prince Doria Pamphili, Socialist mayor of Rome, dismissed a municipal employee on the ground he had been a Fascist. Someone asked Doria how long the dustman had been a Fascist. Doria said, "Twenty Years." His friend replied, "Well, he doesn't seem to have got much out of it if he is still a dustman."

The real truth of all this is that, though it is right to exclude from public life those of the Fascist hierarchy who brought Italy into the war and personally profited from the regime, it is quite absurd to start a heresy hunt against those who were only nominally Fascist. We have a useful maxim in England which says, "It is no good trying to make scapegoats out of small fry."

IT LOOKS AS IF THE Italians are beginning to realize the wisdom of this saying. Today all parties except the Communists, who of course have vested interest in maintaining a perpetual purge, seem content to let bygones be bygones and concentrate on rebuilding their shattered, hungry country.

Britain, U.S. In Agreement On Atom Plans

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Great Britain and the United States last night appeared to be in agreement that the basic secret of atomic energy must be safeguarded under proposed plans for the United Nations' general assembly to control the atom bomb.

JAMES F. BYRNES, United States secretary of state, said yesterday he believed the issue of safeguarding the basic secrets of atomic energy would be settled satisfactorily.

Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary, said at a press conference a "defence against the atomic bomb is the success of the United Nations Organization."

There was some American concern that the secrecy safeguards were jeopardized by the wording of a resolution, submitted to the United Nations, recommending establishment of a commission to deal with atomic energy.

EXCEPTION WAS TAKEN to a recommendation that the commission "shall proceed with the utmost dispatch and inquire into all phases of the problems."

However, Mr. Byrnes said the plan specifies all stages in dealing with the problem will be concurrent with security.

The British view is understood to be the same.

Mr. Byrnes said that "whenever people have the same objective they never have trouble finding language to reach the objective."

HE EXPECTED to have an early talk with Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, one of two Republican members of the delegation who did not attend the delegation's first press conference Monday.

This week the delegates will do most of their work in plenary session, starting at Thursday's inaugural gathering when they will elect a president in place of Dr. Zuleta Angel of Colombia, president of the preparatory commission. Henri Spaak, Belgian foreign minister, is a candidate.

NEXT WEEK the assembly will open a long debate on the preparatory commission's report. During this debate Mr. Bevin will set forth Britain's position in an important speech.

The debate may last a week and then the assembly will divide into committees. The committee stage will probably last about three weeks.

Only after disposing of all this preliminary business will the general assembly, in plenary session, debate pressing international problems.

Murdered Boy's Dog Awaiting Master's Return

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9—(CP)—Paddy doesn't know his young master, Roy McGregor, 13-year-old schoolboy, is dead. Roy was the victim of a gun-slayer Friday night as he was returning home from a picture show.

Paddy is a two-year-old English bulldog, constant companion of the boy. He came to the household as a tiny pup.

"He didn't sleep Friday night," said Mrs. Allistair McGregor, the boy's mother, yesterday. "He has been terribly upset and wouldn't eat the first two days".

Periodically while reporters were visiting the McGregor house, Paddy put his front paws on a window sill, and peered outdoors—looking for the master who will never return.

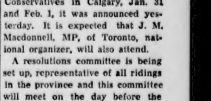

He wouldn't let his picture be taken, snapping at a press photographer who carried a flash camera.

Bracken Coming To Calgary Meet

CALGARY, Jan. 9—(CP)—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, will be present for the two-day provincial convention of Alberta Progressive Conservatives in Calgary, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1, it was announced yesterday. It is expected that J. M. Macdonnell, MP, of Toronto, national organizer, will also attend.

A resolutions committee is being set up, representative of all ridings in the province and this committee will meet on the day before the convention. One of the principal items on the convention agenda will be the question of the party's future activity in the province, whether to re-enter the political field as a party entity or leave the way open for co-operation with other groups.

Anti-British Revolutionary Chief

Dead Man Has "Arisen" in India To Challenge Gandhi as Leader

By ROBERT CLURMAN
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

CALCUTTA, Jan. 9.—(BUP)—A dead man has "risen" in India to challenge Mohandas K. Gandhi's hold on the restless Indian masses. The aged Mahatma's shadow-rival is the anti-British revolutionary, Subhas Chandra Bose, who almost certainly died in the crash of a Japanese plane on Formosa last summer.

Bose

BUT DEAD or alive he is the first man to contest Gandhi's leadership since the Mahatma rose to fame more than 25 years ago. And in their struggle for political mastery over India's millions lies the crucial issue in India today: violence or passive resistance to British rule.

Bose, who raised an Indian Army after the fall of Singapore in 1942 to fight alongside the Japanese for the "liberation" of India tried to escape to Tokyo after the surrender last August.

His plane crashed and burned on a Formosa airfield, and both Allied and Japanese spokesmen said later that he was killed and that his body was cremated.

THERE ARE FEW Indians who believe that story. The conviction is widespread that Bose is alive and will return one day to marshal his forces in the struggle for Indian freedom.

The aura of mystery surrounding his death, like the tiny grain of uncertainty in Hitler's suicide, has added enormously to the Bose legend. The collection of anecdotes about "Netaji"—as his followers call him—ranges from the merely heroic to the supernatural, and new stories are circulated every day.

India's older generation may still look for guidance to the little old man in a loin-cloth who lives on dates and goats' milk and preaches universal brotherhood, but it is Subhas Bose and his war cry of "On to Delhi" who is firing the imagination of young India.

THE BRITISH treason trial at New Delhi of three former staff officers of Bose's nationalist army has added to the fame of the 48-year-old ex-president of India's congress party.

The congress party, which officially condemned his co-operation with the Japanese, now has seized on the New Delhi treason trial as political dynamite for use against the British, and in the process Bose bids fair to become India's greatest hero.

The demand for release of the three nationalists has become one of the most effective battle cries of the Congress Party. The agitation reached a climax at a recent mass meeting in Calcutta when 500,000 people gathered to hear congress leaders speak from a rostrum over which towered a mammoth portrait-bust of Subhas Bose.

PANDIT Jawaharlal Nehru, the popular congress leader who once said he would fight Bose if the nationalist army invaded India alongside the Japanese, himself addressed the throng from beneath the portrait of his erstwhile enemy.

Thus the congress party, while reaffirming its faith in Gandhi's policy of non-violence, is paradoxically rallying the Indian masses around the figure of the man who raised an army to fight for India's freedom.

Both Indian and European observers say they have never seen the Indian people worked up to such a rebellious pitch and have never seen the situation more explosive.

MEANWHILE, the Mahatma, still wielding tremendous power over Hindu India, remains aloof from partisan politics, ignoring the dead man who threatens his fame. Gandhi still holds his daily sunset prayer meetings and counsels his followers to remain true to their pledge of non-violence.

But in the cities, in the villages and across the plains of India the legend and fame of "Netaji" and his Indian army grows.

Mr. Smith wrote he left the board of trade because of "differences with the president," Sir Stafford Cripps.

Hoop Skirts Are Coming

Wasp-Like Waist Is Only Need: Fickle Fashion Favors Curves

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—This year you'll be wearing hoop skirts.

So says Adele Simpson, who shows them in her spring collection, presented during the second day of New York's Week of Fashion Openings.

The Simpson hoop skirts are not exactly in the 1865 manner, but they are an indication of what may come as the women of the world do an abrupt about-face toward ultra-feminine dress after the war years of streamlined simplicity.

The tone of spring fashions is one of feminity, curves and accentuated hips and busts. The waist must be small to do justice to the new fashions, but the figure may curve at will above and below.

Ottawa Studying North Fisheries

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—New studies of fisheries problems in Canada's eastern and western coastal areas, as well as in the far north, are planned by the fisheries research board of Canada which concluded its four-day annual meeting here yesterday.

The board will continue work at the Vancouver experimental station in refrigeration studies and investigation into the nutritional values of fish products, and place increased emphasis on salmon investigations in the Skeena River area of British Columbia.

On the Atlantic seaboard, where halibut production has been limited, exploration will be made of deep-sea areas as possible sources of halibut.

OTHER 1946 PLANS of the board include continuing investigations designed to further development of commercial fishing at Great Slave Lake, NWT, where production begun last year yielded a 1,500,000-pound catch of lake trout and whitefish. Possibility of research into Arctic fishing prospects also will be investigated.

The board's six permanent research stations will continue their previous studies. This includes study of the Winnipeg Goldeye at the Winnipeg plant.

Dr. A. T. Cameron of the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, was re-elected chairman of the board for his 13th year of office, with other officers also re-elected.

British "Hams" Are Back on Air

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(Reuters)—Britain's "hams"—the amateur radio broadcasters—will soon be back on the airwaves with their friendly and far-reaching hobby. The government announced last night that the 5,500 amateur radio station licenses withdrawn at the outbreak of the war are being returned and some new licenses are being issued. "Hams" in North America went back on the air last Nov. 15.

Mystery Islands Might Reappear

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 9.—(CP)—A group of Southwest Pacific islands, missing for about 150 years, may reappear following the violent earthquake in the Antarctic Circle on Dec. 29 scientists at the Riverview Observatory in New South Wales predicted. The islands were discovered in 1814 but disappeared a few years later. Their origin was attributed to a disturbance similar to that reported.

BANTU CENSUS.

HOMER

Famous Mascot Will Be Kept By Lt.-Governor

VICTORIA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—The future well-being of K57600, Pte. Wallace, famous St. Bernard mascot of 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment of Victoria, has been assured, it was revealed in an announcement from regimental headquarters that the dog will shortly take up permanent residence at Government House.

His home will be the province's No. 1 mansion as a result of the kind offer extended by Lieutenant Governor W. C. Woodward, which leaves no doubt he will be well looked after.

Wallace, however, it is pointed out, will remain on the strength of the Canadian Scottish Regiment until the "last lament" is piped over his body. The bemedaled, overseas dog veteran is eight years old and still has a good stretch of life ahead of him.

Douglas Names New Minister In Sask. Govt.

REGINA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Isidore Charles (Toby) Nollet, 47, CCF member of the Saskatchewan legislature for Cumberlie constituency, and deputy speaker of the legislature during the last two sessions, has been appointed minister of agriculture, Premier T. C. Douglas announced last night.

Mr. Nollet assumes one post formerly held by Co-operatives Minister L. F. McIntosh, who will retain the portfolio of co-operatives.

Mr. McIntosh became minister of agriculture last February following the resignation of George H. Williams who later died in Vancouver.

Mr. Nollet's appointment brings to 12 the strength of the provincial cabinet, the number of its members when the CCF assumed office in July, 1944.

Typhus Reported In Central Europe

PRAGUE, Jan. 9.—(Reuters)—Deadly spotted typhus has broken out in many places in eastern Slovakia and inhabitants of some 189 villages are dying fast of hunger, want and disease, it was disclosed here yesterday. Although the typhus has not yet reached epidemic proportions, health services are so inadequate that local authorities have no idea how many are ill or have died of the disease.

The chase and arrest followed the armed robbery of a drug store operated by Alan Edwards on Madison avenue in central Toronto.

Officials Discuss Veterans' Protest

J. H. Ross, regional director for Alberta of Canadian Vocational Training attended a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Canadian Legion and other parties interested in the recent protest of pre-matriculation war veteran training personnel against going to Red Deer for schooling.

According to officials of the Legion branch several of 120 scheduled to take courses at the former Canadian Army barracks in Red Deer returned to Edmonton Monday with new protests.

The men declared they were given blankets and told to sleep in a large barrack room holding 50 beds. They stated they had previously been told they would sleep in former officers' quarters.

Many Reporting Unusual Hobbies

Chamber of Commerce offices continue to be flooded with letters describing unusual occupations and hobbies following the published request from Scientific Films Inc. of Hollywood.

A few of the letters now on file tell of making rubber hacks for curling games, "making gentle thoroughbred colts", and "borrowing money from one person and loaning it to another."

The last mentioned "occupation" does not strike chamber officials as being unusual, particularly if the rate of interest is high.

Divorces Granted

Four decrees nisi of divorce were granted in supreme court Tuesday by Mr. Justice H. H. Parlee. The decrees were granted to Percy Grierson from Grace Grierson; William Munro from Phoebe A. E. Munro; Edward Kobasuik from Stella Kobasuik; and Frida B. Walsh from Lloyd E. Walsh.

Returns Home

After six years overseas, part of that in Northwest Europe, RSM A. S. Bird, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bird, 9327 101 avenue, has returned to Edmonton. He went overseas with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, and later transferred to the Canadian Provost Corps. He crossed the Atlantic on his return trip aboard the Queen Elizabeth and arrived in Edmonton on New Year's Day. His father is a veteran of both war, having served more than five years in the war just past with the Veterans' Guard of Canada.

Whiskered Era

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 9—(AP)—Note to the ladies: The men are still rough and tough in Alaska. There will be open season on beardless males between Feb. 27 and March 2, when any man caught in Anchorage without a beard will be charged with indecent exposure. A "whiskerando" court will try offenders.

Foster Defends Alaska Highway Construction

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9.—(CP)—The Alaska highway, though built as a military road with a specific purpose, would bear favorable comparison with any gravelled surface highway on the continent, Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, former Canadian officer in the Northwest Command, told the annual meeting of the British Columbia and Yukon chamber of mines.

"IT IS AN ALL-WEATHER road with easy grades, favorable climatic and physical conditions and is cheap and comparatively inexpensive to maintain," he stated.

Foster said that criticism of the road, particularly its location, by those who failed to appreciate its basic purpose as an air route lifeline, was unfortunate.

THE ROAD was in wartime "of threefold value for defence, accomplishing the defeat of the Japanese northeast attacks, then offence, providing a highway to the Aleutians from which a counter-attack could be pressed home against Japan, and finally, as a supply line to Russia protected by the Rockies.

Whitehorse, 45 years ago a whole year's overland journey from Edmonton by RCMP patrol, now can be reached by plane in seven or eight hours and by the highway from the railheads at Dawson Creek in three days.

Revise Prices On Dried Beans

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—The prices board last night announced a revision of the price ceiling on imported Lima and kidney beans to facilitate their movement from the United States. Price to consumers at Montreal will range from 15 to 16 cents a pound for Limas and 12 to 14 for red kidney beans. Prices at other distribution centres will vary according to charges involved.

Bombed Three Times Smashed London Church Carries on Amid Ruins

By JACK SULLIVAN

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(CP)—On three occasions during the war German bombs rocked and battered St. James' Anglican church in bustling Piccadilly but services still are held in a rebuilt corner of the edifice.

DESIGNED BY Sir Christopher Wren in 1684 "to hold 2,000 people, and all to hear the services and see the preacher," the church now is roofless, weeds carpet the floor and birds make nests along the walls—but there is room for 120 persons to attend the daily services.

The first bomb fell in St. James churchyard Oct. 14, 1940, crumbling the four-storey rectory and killing the verger and his wife. The same night incendiaries landed on the church proper. Water mains in the district were broken and firemen stood by helpless as flames raced through the structure.

SPURRED ON by the rector, Ven. C. E. Lambert, church workers dug in quickly to restore at least part of the church. Six months later they had rebuilt the south aisle.

Then concussion from a bomb dropped nearby wiped out most of the work. Services were resumed June 1, 1941, and continued until Ash Wednesday, 1944, when a flying bomb exploded in the district, caving in a part of the south aisle wall. A two-week repair job was necessary.

COMPLETE restoration will cost an estimated £50,000 ($225,000) and Archdeacon Lambert is hopeful of making a start this year if permission is received from government authorities.

Butter Production Declines Sharply

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP)—Canadian butter declined sharply in December to 10,566,000 pounds, compared with 12,361,000 in December, 1944, the Dominion Bureau of statistics said yesterday.

The decline, slightly more pronounced than that for November, apparently was anticipated as Prices Board officials announced in December the weekly butter ration of seven ounces would be reduced to six ounces beginning this week.

CHEDDAR CHEESE production in December fell to 2,956,000 pounds compared with 4,358,000 pounds in December, 1944. All provinces shared in the decrease.

Ice cream production dropped to 329,410 gallons against 630,926 in December, 1944.

Concentrated milk production in December, including whole milk products and milk by-products, amounted to 11,800,000 pounds, 24 per cent less than in December, 1944.

The ROAD AHEAD

by Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

ONE of the mental pictures which most ex-servicemen will carry with them to their graves will be the memory of the poker games that usually marked every pay day in the services. There always have been, of course, regulations forbidding gambling, but the fact that it was forbidden only seemed to make the winnings sweeter.

THE UNFORTUNATE part about this is that there are a great many ex-servicemen, many of them men who are unable to obtain employment at the present who don't realize that civilian life is different from army life.

Regulations and standing orders notwithstanding, the usual procedure on pay day in the army—especially in theatres of operations (the troops were always paid when the units were in rest) was for most of the men to try to turn their lira, marks, francs, guilders, or what have you, into more of the same.

RIGHT AFTER THEY had been paid the gamblers would divide up into groups of five or six—and in a short time somebody in each group would have all the money. The winners from the various groups would then re-arrange themselves into suitably-sized groups. The winners from these games would then re-assemble until finally five or six men were playing for practically the entire battalion bankroll. The "big" game went on, with interruptions, for days. Winnings amounting to $300 or $400 were quite commonplace.

In the army this didn't matter. Pay was so small that most men figured they might just as well be

When Brakes Don't Hold . . . It's Grief

Don't expect your brakes to hold your car on a slippery street unless you are travelling slowly. Make it a habit to slow up when you see pedestrians crossing the street—don't expect your brakes to stop your car on a dime when the roadways are as slippery as they are right now.

ROAD REPORTS

Roads at Dawson Creek and Beaverlodge are drifted, and at Fort St. John they are badly drifted; all other roads are reported in good condition.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the amalgamation proposal of the United Farmers of Alberta, the Alberta Farmers Union and Alberta Federation of Agriculture?

THE ANSWERS

HARVEY THOMPSON, farmer: I am heartily in favor of it. There is no doubt that the farmers, for their own benefit, can do more speaking with a united voice than with several different ones.

THORNTON WALLACE, grainman: It seems a logical thing to do. I am confident that the move will be for the benefit of the farmers as well as the people as a whole.

FRANK BORDEN, trucker: My contacts with farmers lead me to the conclusion that amalgamation is desirable and beneficial. Also, most of them I have talked to are of the opinion that it should have taken place some time ago.

Long, Faithful Service Appreciated

In January, 1912, Jack Williams took a job in the new Tegler Building as maintenance man. In that same month Dr. W. O. Farquharson took offices in the building. On Tuesday afternoon, in the fifth floor coffee shop of the building, Dr. Farquharson presented Mr. Williams with a cheque for $170 in recognition of his faithful years of "gruff, good-natured service to all the tenants." Above picture shows Dr. Farquharson, extreme left, making the presentation to Mr. Williams. Beside Mr. Williams is Miss Vivian Gilbeault who had done much of the collecting to make up the amount presented. She is office nurse for Dr. J. H. Conroy who is seated beside her. Dr. Conroy has also been a tenant of the building for many years and engineered the collections and presentation.

Edmonton Radar Mechanic Home After Service on the Continent

Mobile radar units used by the Allies in the last year of the war in Europe permitted their bombers to drop bombs with deadly accuracy, the missiles hitting within 50 yards of targets, Cpl. Bernard Ower, RCAF radar mechanic declared on his arrival back in Edmonton Tuesday.

SON OF DR. J. J. OWER, dean of the faculty of medicine at the University of Alberta, Cpl. Ower was one of the few Canadians to see service on the continent of Europe with the marvel scientific device brought to perfection by the RAF during the Second World War.

Cpl. Ower was attached to an RAF Oboe twin-gear unit used primarily to direct pathfinder planes to their targets.

One piece of equipment guided the plane to the target, the other gave the signal for bomb release.

THE RADAR - PATHFINDER technique was evolved after the Allies found that heavy bombing of Germany in 1942 was not producing satisfactory results because of a lack of accuracy.

One drawback of the pathfinder technique was limitation of range but after D-Day the mobile equipment behind Allied lines on the continent brought the Ruhr within easy range for the wonder radar apparatus.

Ower's most unforgettable experience was the final desperate drive of the Germans in the Ardennes in December of 1944, the operation that became known as the Battle of the Bulge.

"HAD THE GERMANS been able to cross the Muese river the Allied position would have been serious in the extreme," the corporal said.

"They made two errors though. They thought they would obtain the gasoline supplies of the Americans and their heavily-armored Tiger tanks were too slow for the job, having a speed of only six miles an hour. After the weather cleared our air force pounded the advancing Germans to pieces. The Americans were also able to move out to destroy all their fuel supplies so the Germans also ran out of gasoline," he explained.

NOW ON 30 DAYS LEAVE, Cpl. Ower expects to get his discharge after three years of service. He will return to Ottawa and resume his work as a librarian in the bureau of statistics in Ottawa.

A brother, Johnny Ower, is serving with the New Zealand forces.

In Trade Post

Announcement was made Wednesday that J. H. Tremblay, one-time Liberal member of the Alberta legislature for Grouard, who served during the war with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, until posted to an administrative job, has been appointed Canadian agricultural trade commissioner to France, Belgium and Holland. When the war closed, he was posted to Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force at Paris as agricultural authority with the rank of lieut.-colonel. He expects to visit Edmonton toward the end of January.

Corps Association To Name Executive

Representatives of the various formations which make up the Canadian Corps Association will be selected to the executive of that veterans' organization from among the returned men of this war, according to an announcement made at a regular meeting of the group held in the Masonic Temple Tuesday night.

ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD as usual from among the membership, and to introduce new veterans to the workings of the corp, some of them will be appointed to "understudy" the elected officers, it was explained.

Returned men from the navy and from the air force will also be given representation on the executive.

S. C. S. Kerr, KC, president, Alberta Command Canadian Corps, gave a brief report on the Dominion Command's convention, held in Ottawa late in November.

National Housing Act Administration Changes Effective

Changes in the Dominion government's National Housing Act administration were reflected in Edmonton Tuesday, when tenants of converted suites coming under the supervision of the local offices, were notified that rent cheques would now be made out to the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation instead of to the Receiver-General as in the past.

Up to the end of 1945 the National Housing Act came directly under the department of finance for administration, A. Arnold, head of the Edmonton offices, explained on Wednesday, but is now under the supervision of the new crown company.

4 Rings Are Stolen From Store Window

Chief Constable Reg. Jennings revealed today that an early arrest is expected following the theft of four rings and a brooch from the window of B. J. Hirman's jewelry store, 10387 101 street, Tuesday night. The display window of the store was broken by the thieves in order to obtain the loot.

Jean P. Charest of Campbellton, N.B., and Leo Postal, Whitecourt, who were near the premises at the time of the robbery, told police that they had seen a couple running away from the building.

City Musician Tells How King, Queen Gave Navy's Show Royal Approval

By E. R. HORTON

Royal approval of the Canadian Navy's show "Meet the Navy" was evidenced at a recent performance given by the full orchestra and cast in London, when King George, the Queen and both the princesses attended, according to Norman Fester, 9756 75 avenue, who was featured trumpet player with the show's band.

HIS MAJESTY had laughed heartily at the performance and later had appeared backstage to congratulate the stars and the musicians.

Prince Bernhardt of Holland had attended a performance before a service audience in Amsterdam. The prince attended the performance with general C'evrar, and both appeared to enjoy the show greatly.

EARLIER, in Paris, the boys and girls in the show acted as hosts for an after-performance party where their guests included such American stars of the radio and screen as Jack Benny, Marlene Dietrich and Larry Adler. A number of well-known English theatrical people also were present.

The carefully nutured myth that Jack Benny can only play "Love in Bloom" on his violin and that quite poorly was exploded by the American comedian that night when he gave one of the "finest violin solos I ever heard", fester said.

AS BENNY FINISHED the number he turned to his silent and appreciative audience and said, "I'll bet you thought that was going to be corny."

Though members of the orchestra have now been returned to their Canadian homes and are awaiting discharge, other performers are still at Elstree, the British Hollywood, where a film is being made of the show.

The musical contributions to the movies were made at Elstree by the orchestra before it was shipped home, and will be co-ordinated in movie cutting rooms.

FESTER WAS BORN in Edmonton and received his education at Hillcrest, King Edward and technical schools. In "tech" he said he had studied metals and automotive mechanics. "Boy that seems a long time ago," he said.

His interest in music was aroused early in his school career when he became a member of the Scout Ramblers, an aggregation of young musicians from the South Side, led by R. Campbell C. Wylie, now with the rehabilitation section of the employment service offices here and formerly a Canadian Legion supervisor.

HE PLAYED THE violin in the orchestra in those days and only under compulsion or vehement persuasion would he use his trumpet, which he later selected as his specialty.

He left Edmonton in the fall of 1939 to make his home in Calgary, where he played with many of that city's well known orchestras before he joined the navy in 1942 as a bandsman.

FOR A BRIEF TIME he played in the Calgary navy band, but was later dispatched to Esquimalt where his vivid trumpet playing met with such approval that when a Canadian Navy band was called for in Scotland he was among the members of the east establishment band to be selected.

For a year he played with the band of the HMCS Niobe, the Canadian training centre at Greenock, Scotland, but when attempts were being made to form the Navy Show he was sent to Aldershot, the garrison town where the show was being collected and rehearsed.

THE WAR HAD DRAWN to a close when the Navy Show was flown to the continent to give its first European performance in Paris. Later aircraft were used to ferry the company to Brussels and Amsterdam. Trucks were used to take the blue-clad performers from Amsterdam to Oldenberg, Germany, where they entertained the troops doing occupation duty in the Canadian area.

The troupe then returned to London and gave their performance before the Royal Family and later at Elstree commenced work on the production of the picture which is expected to bear the name "Meet the Navy."

Fester now is living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fester, on the southside. His father is employed by the city.

HE IS TRYING to make use of training facilities available to him as a veteran to take advanced trumpet tuition from a well known New York artist.

Betty Shaw, well-known Edmonton singer and actress is the only other person from this district in the show. She is still in England at Elstree studios.

Classroom Space Sought For Vets

Every effort will be made to find suitable classroom space in the city for Edmonton residents taking pre-matriculation courses under the vocational training plan for war veterans, J. H. Ross, regional director of Canadian vocational training, stated Tuesday at a meeting in the Memorial Hall afternoon.

THE MEETING WAS called to discuss recent protests of some 120 Edmonton veterans against being sent to the former army barracks at Red Deer for the courses. The men contended they should be able to obtain the schooling in Edmonton where their homes are.

Mr. Ross also said he would make efforts to remedy conditions of housing complained about by veterans sent to the Red Deer barracks.

Present at the meeting were: Mr. Ross, President Harold E. Tanner of the Edmonton Canadian Legion, Harper Prowse, MLA, E. Brown, chairman of the provincial veterans' advisory board, W. J. Williams, MLA, Percy J. Gwynne, and H. Aldridge, in charge of vocational training for the department of veterans' affairs in Edmonton.

Enforce Ceiling On Tire Prices

Although rationing restrictions have been lifted on the sale of tires, new or used, there has been no change in the price ceiling, according to an official announcement made by Wartime Prices Board officials Wednesday. Prosecutions which have been pending against those charged with selling tires over ceiling prices are proceeding, and officials warn prices will continue to be scrutinized.

SPORTS EDITOR

JOHN DUCEY, public relations director for the Edmonton Junior Hockey League and whose chief concern right now is Bobby Carse Night on Thursday, seems more than a trifle worried lest some prisoners of war be overlooked, although every step possible has been taken to guard against such a happening.

It appears that three names were sent in yesterday which had been inadvertently omitted. John accordingly asks that if any citizen knows of any others the names be phoned to him at 84529.

John also emphasizes that all Edmonton servicemen are to be guests of the Junior League and plans call for them all to sit together in the seats specially reserved for them in section "L." It is important they all be in one group.

WHILE THE strengthening of South Side by using five players who were ineligible for junior hockey, made last night's game with Canadians more competitive, the move could result in complications regarding scoring averages, unless the same quintet is in the lineup for one game against both Maple Leafs and EAC.

Tuesday's game did not produce much good hockey, but was one of the cleanest junior sessions of the season. The ice surface was again sugary, making accurate passing a tough assignment for everybody. Bill Black's three points gave him a total of 22 and moved him two ahead of Bud McPherson. Next come Bill Gadsby and John Rypien with 19, and then Harry Grose and Jack Meldrum with 18.

DOUG GRIMSTON, president of the British Columbia AHA, is quoted by the Vancouver Province as saying the Western Canada playdowns for the Allan Cup will be held in B.C.

Grimston also disclosed the B.C.-Alberta juniors series "likely" would be held in the Vancouver area, which could mean another session between Nanaimo and Canadians. Cheer up "Robby," it may have stopped raining on the island, come playoff time.

SID FEDER of the AP says: It's one of the bitter ironies of racing that George (The Iceman) Woolf of Cardston, Alta., should have been killed the same week his long-time pal Johnny Longden of Tabor, Alta., was crowned as the jockey who came closest to winning $1,000,000 in one year with his mounts.

The figures show the 180 mounts the little fellow with the wizened face booted home picked up a fancy $261,977 . . . with his 180 in 1945, he has piled up 2,418 firsts in 19 years of riding in the United States, Canada and Mexico. He won the riding championship only once —in 1938 when he clicked with 236 gallopers.

He and Iceman Woolf were pals for a whole lot longer than most folks knew. As a matter of fact they just about grew up together . . . as a kid, he (Johnny) wound up on George's father's ranch in Alberta and it was there both learned to ride.

Calgary Ends Elks' Unbeaten Home Stand

Ken Hunter, Brownridge Net 2 Each

SASKATOON ,Sask., Jan. 9 —(CP)—Calgary Stampeders moved into sole possession of first place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League standings and snapped Saskatoon Elks' unbeaten record on home ice at nine games with a clean cut 6-2 victory here last night before 4,150 fans.

The teams skated off the ice at the end of the first period with the score deadlocked at 1-1 as each club tallied during penalties. Stampeders moved into a 3-1 lead in the second session and rapped in three goals without a reply from the home club in the third.

KEN HUNTER and Bob Brownridge, with a pair of counters each, and Bunny Dame and Syd Craddock were the marksmen for Calgary. Hunter also picked up an assist to collect three points. Pat Lundy and Keith Allen scored for the Elks.

The speedy first period was scoreless until the 16:31 mark when, with Ab Welsh in the penalty box, Hunter opened the scoring. Bob Dawkins and Almas on a power play with Bunny Dame and Art Michaluk. Elks came back three minutes later to tie the score with Lundy netting. Russ Dertell on Cy Rouse's pass while Hunter was serving a penalty.

Brownridge rifled a shot past Almas to open the scoring in the second period and Elks scored for the last time a minute later while Craddock was in the penalty box. Bunny Dame and Doug Cairns combined to send the Calgarians in the lead midway through the session.

CLOSE CHECKING prevailed in the first 12 minutes of the final but the break came after Almas and Tony Desmarais clashed. The referee ruling called for major penalties to both players, then after a long argument, the officials settled for minors. Hunter on a play with Wilder and McIntyre, started the three-goal outbreak. Craddock, with assists from Hunter and Grant, netted the second. Brownridge and Grant staged one of the neatest passing plays of the night for the final rink Tuesday night.

Montreal Royals Hold Lead In Quebec Senior Puck Loop

By PIERRE LE MOYNE

MONTREAL, Jan. 9—(CP)—With the Quebec Senior Hockey League well on its way into the second half of its schedule, the race for the Thomas O'Connel trophy, emblematic of the QSHL championship, is drawing closer and only two clubs—the league-leading Montreal Royals and the cellar-dwelling Hull Volants—can have any idea now of how they will probably stand when play-off time comes around.

Royals seem to have that extra speed and power needed to retain their comfortable lead atop the loop when the regular schedule draws to an end while Volants, who are trailing the field by 11 points, are given very few chances of emerging from last place, even though they have improved considerably in recent games.

The rejuvenated Ottawa Senators have moved at a much faster pace during the last month and climbed from fourth to second place, nine points behind Royals and seven ahead of Valleyfield Braves. Quebec Aces and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts who are tied for third place . . .

Quebec, Valleyfield and Shawinigan Falls, racing neck and neck all season, seem to have an even chance of taking third place.

In the provincial hockey league, Lachine Rapides have accumulated 30 points in 20 games and still prove the team to beat but Victoriaville Tigers are making good progress in second place, trailing Rapides by nine points but having played five games less. Victoriaville and Drummondville Imperides, who both play their home games on natural ice, are handicapped by the prevailing mild weather and postponements.

Game Starts at 11 p.m.

Canadians Score 6-4 Win Over South Side in Overtime

Scoring three goals to their opponents' one in overtime, Canadians defeated an augmented South Side club 6-4 at the Arena on Tuesday night in what will count as an official City Junior Hockey League game.

South Siders used five Independent League players—Goalie Bill McLennan of Burns, forwards Ken Cox and Bill Dawe with defencemen Bob Causgrove of Swift's, and defenceman Jack Ingram of New Methods.

Bill Gadsby, Harry Groves, Leo Sorsa, Ron Matthews, Vince Bannon and Don Slater scored for Canadians, Bill Black collecting three assists. Frankie Lappin contented two for South Side, Colin Kilburn and Ken Cox adding the other two.

Playing just over two minutes of overtime and with the score deadlocked at 3-3, Groves camped almost in the goalmouth, pushed the puck in with Goalie McLennan down after stopping Black's shot.

Then midway in the bargain session, Bannon added another, going through alone after Gadsby had passed up to him behind the Canadian blue line.

Frank Lappin got one back for South Side, banging the disc in from a scrimmage following an attack with Bob Causgrove. But Don (Slats) Slater put the result beyond doubt when he took a pass from Black close in and beat McLennan with a high shot with only 12 seconds remaining.

Gadsby had opened the scoring in the first minute of the game on a combined effort with Groves and Black, but Lappin equalized with a wing shot. Sorsa's goal from Eddie Thomas lifted Canadians out in front again, but the puck on Kilburn's drive from left side went off the far post into the net, with three seconds left in the period.

Ken Cox split the defence and outguessed Murray at 15:35 for the only goal of the second stanza.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

War Wife Is Commended By Husband's Mother

With Effort, an Ideal Relationship Can Exist Between Mother-in-Law and Daughter-in-Law Even During Trying Days of War

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I think it is now time to award citations to a group of women who have been as brave and gallant soldiers on the home front as their husbands have been on the war front, namely, the daughters-in-law. Mine had a beautiful home, with every comfort and convenience in it, but when my son was called to the service they sold it. She moved to a small, cheap cottage in the little town in which she was reared, because she could live there more reasonably with her two children.

She has written to my son every day since he has been away. Done her own housework. Made her children's clothes. Raised a garden. By her economies she has saved a good part of her allotment. She has spared me many gray hairs and much heartache over the war, for she always seems to have a comforting answer for the things that trouble me. If she has a letter of information that she thinks I might not have, she always tells me over a long distance call. She never forgets birthdays, or Christmas, or Mother's Day, or Father's Day, and she brings the children, on crowded trains, to see us as often as she can.

IN RETURN I am guardian of her home and happiness. I never interfere with her management, or offer any suggestions. Every man has two women who are powerful in his life—his mother and his wife. United they bring him happiness, divided they make his misery. A wise mother realizes that she controls, to a large extent, the success of her children's marriages, so I am considerate of my daughter-in-law, and tell my son in my letters to him of how much we love her and what a grand girl she is, and how lucky he is to have gotten her. Therefore, through two years of service he has had perfect harmony on the home front and he will soon be returning to a happy and unbroken home.

So I present this citation of love to my daughter-in-law who has kept her home fires burning and given a performance of devotion, over and above the call of duty.

MOTHER-IN-LAW.

ANSWER: There has been so much criticism of the gay young war wives who have dumped their children on their mothers-in-law while they amused themselves by playing around with good-looking officers, and there have been so many possessive mothers who have satisfied their jealousy of their daughters-in-law by writing their sons letters to filled with innuendos and suspicions of their wives that it broke down the morale of the poor soldiers and wrecked their marriages, that it is a pleasure to print this letter from a woman who shows what the ideal relationship between a mother-in-law and daughter-in-law can be and how productive it is, not only for the happiness of both, but of the man they both love.

I COMMEND this letter to the reading of all mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a terrible inferiority complex and I feel that my parents are to blame for it. Never will they pay me a compliment, or tell me that I have done anything well. They are always calling attention to my faults and criticizing everything I do or say. Otherwise they are wonderful to me.

What can a girl in her teens do in such a case?

BEVERLY.

ANSWER: Your parents are a hangover from the old days in which fathers and mothers thought it their duty to keep their children from being conceited by making them feel as if they were worms of the dust. Many a young life has been blighted by this mistaken idea. For appreciation doesn't make us vain. It only inspires us to make the most of such talents as we have, whereas continually having one's defects kept before them kills all of one's self-confidence and ambition.

What girls and boys need in their teens is a boost, not a knock-out blow.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 18. Very much in love with a married man with one child. I am not sure that he is in love with me instead of his wife and I don't want to be a home-breaker. My mind is in a mixup. Please advise me.

PUZZLED.

Answer: There is no need for you to be in a mixup over the matter. Clarify the situation by quit imagining you are in love with a married man. You know well enough what is the right and decent thing to do. Do it and you will end your worries.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MOTHERS hate terribly to destroy their children's faith in human beings. They hesitate to tell a small child there might be persons —happily in the minority—who would mean him ill. To that end they wonder whether it is wise to frighten a child and tell him about bad men who might want to pick him up in a car or get him to go with them by offer of some treat.

It is necessary to protect children and the same end can be accomplished, I think, without going to the lengths of terrifying or disillusioning them. We give children so many orders, most of which have little meaning to them, telling them they mustn't do this or that, that one more will be taken in their stride.

THAT ONE ORDER is that at no time is the child ever to get into a car with a stranger, no matter how nice the car or no matter where the stranger offers to take him. Never, never! That should be emphasized. The child may smile and refuse and say, "I must first ask mother." Then he must run home fast, in order to ask his mother.

HE IS NOT TO ACCEPT candy or treats from any stranger, do any task for him, or go anywhere with him. ANYONE, boy, man or woman. He is to say, "I can't eat things between meals. I'll take it home and my mother will give it to me."

The reason for all of this may mystify the child. But these are orders from home. He is a good soldier and obeys orders, even if he knows no reason for them. Prime him with his answers so that they come glibly. Tell him to run home to tell mother.

IF, OCCASIONALLY, some kindly Samaritan offers a ride and is refused, if she is thoughtful she will know the reasons why and applaud the mother who so protects her child. In such explanations there need be no mention of kidnapping or of perversions. One has only to issue the orders and say, "This is the way we do things," and the child will follow one's suggestions.

Our leaflet No. 70, "Asking Why and What For," includes answers to questions which may confound the parent. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

PACKING LUNCHES

Those who are trying to live on a correct diet are often puzzled as to how to arrange lunches which must be carried to work or to school. The lunch carried on any one day should be considered in relation to the other meals of that day in order that a well-balanced diet may be used, but in this article I am going to suggest some good specimen lunches which you may use, and will let you arrange your other meals accordingly.

The following are some good lunches which will prove both satisfying and nourishing.

1. Two or three sandiches of whole wheat bread filled with peanut butter and lettuce. Do not put peanut butter and lettuce in the sandwiches. Slice the bread before packing in the lunch and wrap it in waxed paper so that the slices will remain fresh and moist. Take along a small jar of peanut butter and also one of the fresh butter, together with head lettuce which has been wrapped in a moist cloth. When ready to eat your lunch, spread the butter on the bread, then add the peanut butter and a plentiful supply of lettuce leaves. Any lettuce which is left-over may also be eaten.

Or, carry well washed celery with you, which has been wrapped in waxed paper, and eat the celery along with sandwiches.

2. Use the same whole wheat bread as for the peanut butter sandwiches, but vary the filling used. Any of the following may be taken: Almond nut butter, minced eggs; minced ripe olives; cheese, meat beef or chicken. Any of these make excellent fillings for the whole wheat bread sandwiches.

If you wish, you may take one or two sandwiches having a "hearty" filling such as roast beef, and in addition the third sandwich may contain a vegetable filling of finely chopped lettuce and celery, or a mixture of chopped celery and ground carrots. Sometimes the vegetable sandwiches will provide a refreshing addition to the more nutritious fillings. When the chopped vegetables are used the sandwich may be prepared at home and carried in the lunch box wrapped in waxed paper.

3. One pint of milk, together with any kind of fresh fruit desired, such as oranges, apples, or pears. The combination of fruit and milk will digest perfectly if no other food is used at the same time. Or, as a variant use buttermilk and dates.

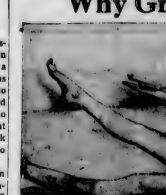

4. Cold broiled or roast chicken, or cold roast beef, string beans (canned), and salad materials such as lettuce and celery. The string beans are heated and placed in a thermos bottle, which will keep them warm until the noon hour. The salad ingredients should be taken wrapped in a moist cloth and the salad prepared when ready to eat.

Try some of these suggestions and see how much better you feel during the afternoon when you have taken a healthful lunch.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angles, Calif.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN—

Why Grow Old?

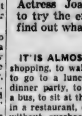

Actress Joan Winfield shows you what fun it can be to try the exercises Josephine Lowman suggests. You'll find out what wonderful results can be achieved, too—and in only eight short weeks.

IT IS ALMOST impossible to go shopping, to walk down the street, to go to a luncheon or bridge or dinner party, to ride a subway or a bus, to sit at the hair dresser's, or in a restaurant, or to go marketing without overhearing conversations between women about figure and overweight and diet.

I am sure that this is not just my personal blight because most of the talk I hear is between persons who do not know me or what I do.

If as many women dieted and exercised as talk about it, the feminine sex would be glorified and lovely that I would soon be out of a job. Therefore, I am not too unhappy because of this procrastination. Yet, the potentialities of women for attractiveness are challenges, and like an old war horse, I always get excited about taking a few pounds off of somebody! As long as it is pounds and not skin I guess it is all right!

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

ARE YOU, BY ANY chance, one of those women who have talked but have not yet done? Did you, by any chance, make New Year's resolutions? Did any of them have to do with looking younger or lovelier by next New Year's Eve—or sooner? If so, let's really do it this year. Make up your mind and stick to it for eight weeks. I am here to help you!

This week I am offering personal advice for your beauty and figure faults. If you wish to join my Eight-Weeks' Self-Improvement Marathon, send a word picture of your problems and I will send corrective directions.

Today's exercise will have happy effects on your abdominal measurement. Lie on the floor with your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise your arms over your head and at the same time raise your right leg. Lower leg, trunk and arms to the floor. Do the same thing raising the left leg this time. Alternate right and left. You may request someone to hold one foot down when you first try this exercise. After you have done it for quite some time you will be able to raise both legs together as you raise your trunk and arms.

IF YOU WISH to join my Eight-Weeks' Self-Improvement program send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Many Federal Depts. in City Reduce Staffs

Problems of demobilization and the introduction of the family allowance project, coupled with the loosening of regulations imposed by wartime necessities, have meant that staffs in local federal government offices have been changed very considerably.

FUTHER REDUCTIONS in some of the staffs concerned will be effected at the end of the fiscal year, March 31, according to some authorities.

Staff at the former offices of the General Motors, which attends to the administrative detail in connection with the issue of the family allowance cheques, is quite a one and has grown in the past year from nothing.

ANOTHER STAFF WHICH has shown a sharp increase is that employed in the Redwood building on Jasper avenue, which handles the rehabilitation of ex-servicemen. From the 60 people of one year ago, who occupied a small corner of the American consulate building, there are now more than 275 government employees.

In the War Mobilization Board offices, the thousands of files which contain the mobilization records of more than 18,000 Alberta men, are now attended to by a staff of 15, while it took nearly 100 officers and clerks to attend to them while the rush was on during the war.

The number of workers in the offices controlling the administration of the PFAA have been reduced to less than 12 from a high of more than 300.

IN THE OFFICES housing the Employment Service of Canada, formerly the selective service offices, though most wartime restrictions on employers have been lifted, it has been found necessary to maintain staffs at wartime strength or better in order to cope with the increased unemployment problem. Oral examinations for positions in those offices were being held on Tuesday morning, officials stated.

Continual reductions are being made in the strength of the staff of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and further changes may be anticipated in the near future as the government continues to relax its price and ration controls.

Former Controls by NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE now relaxed

The Permit System hitherto in effect under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations is now abandoned. In the interests of preserving an efficient employment service, only the minimum of requirements remain in effect, as follows:

1. Employers are required to notify the National Employment Service of all vacancies in their establishments.
2. Employers are required to report to their nearest National Employment Office all additions to their staffs.
3. Unemployed workers seeking employment are required to register with the National Employment Office.
4. A person terminating employment, either employer or employee, is required to give seven days' notice.

Advertising, by either employer or employee, is now entirely unrestricted.

These few remaining requirements are the very minimum necessary to give the Local Employment Offices a reasonably complete picture of the manpower supply and demand to enable them to render efficient service to both Management and Labour.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

For the first time, I believe, in the history of bridge, the national open pair championship was won this year by a husband and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jaeger of New York. It was a popular victory. They have been consistent winners for several years, and it was not surprising to see them come through for this major championship. They have a fine partnership. Their bidding is very accurate and, unlike some married couples, when a hand goes wrong it is quickly forgotten, and on they go to the next one.

A record for this event, 134 pairs, entered the contest. At the end of two sessions, the field was reduced to 84 pairs, and then to 42 pairs for the final session.

Today's hand from the finals came in for considerable discussion. One pair failed to bid a slam. Most pairs bid seven clubs, but the winners and several other pairs arrived at seven no trump. You can see that, regardless of what is opened, North and South have six diamond tricks, five club tricks, the ace of spades and acking of hearts—14 in all.

For that rush job of glamorizing your hair, try a dry shampoo. Brush a powder shampoo into your hair. Massage your scalp for a full minute. Then, with head hanging down, brush your hair. You will then hold your head up—with pride!

Vancouver Schools Correct Stammering

VANCOUVER, Jan. 9.—(CP)—A Vancouver school board service that is releasing hundreds of school children from the handicap of stuttering yearly will be extended during 1946, it was announced yesterday. The service was introduced in Vancouver in 1939 and last year 500 out of 1,200 child stammerers were pronounced cured. Boys suffer more often than girls from defective speech, which is a psychological handicap, said Mrs. Elfreda Webb, in charge of the course.

Debunker

Though one would naturally suppose that the most dangerous places on our highways—the places where accidents happen most—are where there are sharp curves, winding roads, or intersections, the statistics of road accidents tell a different story, that the most dangerous place is a straight-of-way, where a long straight stretch of level highway lies ahead. This is where the bad accidents most often occur. The reason is that drivers slow up and take great precautions at crossroads, around curves and in such places, but on straight roads they open up the throttle and give little attention to safety.

broke as the way they were. Everybody got their meals regularly and had their blankets to sleep in, broke or not. And your reserve pay mounted up so there was usually enough for you to take your leave when it came your turn whether you had won or not. If you won then you could have a real leave.

BUT WHEN A FELLOW starts gambling with the grocery and rent money, or with his gratuities, it is another thing. The trouble is that some of the boys, remembering how much fun it was in the army (and I presume the other services were the same if you can believe all you hear) decided to take the bread money down to a game and run it up to the point where they have enough to buy cake.

There is a great temptation for a man to take his weekly benefit cheque, or his gratuity cheque, down to the closest game and try to run it into something worth having. And there are men in the cities making a good living by fleecing them.

I KNOW OF A CASE recently in Edmonton where a veteran, with his gratuity cheque, some back pay and some savings set out for one of the local gambling dens to make his fortune. It wasn't long before he was weeping around the offices at the department of veterans' affairs telling his sad story. He had lost $1,400. Which, while it might not cut much of a swath in Monte Carlo, is fairly considered chicken-feed in Alberta. Officials from the department of veterans' affairs had a heart-to-heart talk with the proprietor of the "joint" and most of the money was returned.

Another fellow got into a friendly game with some old stagers at a "club" and found when it was time to go that he was down $700. Fortunately it was possible to recover most of that for him.

The moral of these stories is "there is a sucker born every minute." Organized gambling games aren't run for the fun of it. Men who spend their time in gambling joints aren't there just because they like the smoky air. They are there to get money away from the wise-boys who come there is search of easy-money. They may not use marked cards or stacked decks, but there are other ways of cheating at poker. And they games they play aren't the innocent little games returned man played in the army.

UNDOUBTEDLY somebody is about to do something about the organized gambling dens now operating. But that won't stop slickers from looking for suckers. The man who printed the old posters "Don't gamble with strangers", knew the score.

Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Gives Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to colds.

And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes 16 ounces of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It mixes perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

You can feel this reliable home mixture take right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Mary-Kay names knitting, reading and piano playing her hobbies, and in the latter, she likes both classical and popular music. Her favorite sports are skating, swimming and riding and she is a member of Phi Sigma Psi, St. Andrew's Catholic Youth Organization and attends St. Andrew's church. Elizabeth Woodward Says . . .

IT'S NOT HIS BUSINESS

If there's one thing that drives a boy frantic it's girl talk. Oh, what the girls talk about when they're together doesn't concern him. But when girl talk spills all over him, he's helpless. And like a drowning man, he thrashes his arms around in a vain attempt to get away from there in a hurry.

And you know what I mean by girl talk. Dresses, hats, lipsticks, new permanents, high heels and the sweater that shrank. He doesn't know what you're talking about . . . and he's not interested either.

THE FINISHED effect of you is all he's conscious of. He doesn't know how you got that way. And if you go into details and tell him, you rob yourself of glamor.

He only knows that some colors please him . . . and others depress him. He doesn't even stop to think why. He knows that some hats are crazy . . . some amuse him . . . some get in his way in the movies, and most of them are a nuisance in a high wind. He likes the touch of shimmering satin and soft velvet . . . but he probably doesn't know their names. He doesn't know one perfume from another . . . but his nose can detect an unpleasant loud, cheap one. He likes you to smell sweet . . . but he doesn't care whether you rub it on, sprinkle it or bathe in it.

If you expect him to notice that you're wearing a new dress . . . you'll be disappointed. He only sees you. He doesn't know the extent of your wardrobe . . . he's never peeked into your closet. All he knows, when he sees you decked out, is that you look mighty fine, and it's all for his benefit. So don't expect him to comment on your new dress. For he really doesn't care. He likes you in your old dress too.

NOR DOES HE want to hear you complain that you washed your hair two hours ago and now you can't do anything with it. It looks all right to him. Why not let him run right on thinking it is okay by you?

"Look at this awful thing I have on my chin" directs his eyes to a defect you really in your heart of hearts hoped he wouldn't notice. But there you go turning the searchlight on it for want of anything better to talk about.

Pulling yourself to pieces right before his eyes is a sort of mass acre. It's a needless sacrifice. You don't have to do it . . . so why hurt yourself?

YOUR LAD WANTS to know about things he cares about. And you're supposed to care, too. It may be dynamos, stamps, airplanes or footballs. Being a lady, you are not supposed to object if the evening is spent in gay converse on his pet subjects . . . man talk. And you are supposed to know something about all those things, and to be able to listen and talk about them intelligently. So be a wise lady and skip talk about things he knows nothing about and cares less. If you can handy words about things he likes, he'll think you're a brilliant conversationalist!

Rita Gibeault Becomes Bride

Chrysanthemums on the altar decorated the Immaculate Conception church for the wedding on Wednesday at 10 a.m. of Miss Rita Marie Gibeault, daughter of Mrs. Ida Gibeault of Edmonton, and the late Hermas Gibeault, to Peter Kotinsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zacaruk of Fox Valley, Sask. The Rev. Fr. Romeo Ketchen performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Sylvio Gibeault, wore a gown of white brocaded taffeta fashioned with a full skirt and a fitted bodice having a sweetheart neckline and long lily point sleeves. Her long veil was held in place with a Shirley Temple headdress, and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, gift of the bridegroom.

SISTERS of the bride, the Misses Aud Viviane Gibeault, were bridesmaids. Miss Annette wore a gown of mauve organza over taffeta, a chapel veil to match and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers. Miss Viviane wore yellow taffeta, chapel veil to match and carried a colonial bouquet. Little Gordon Tanna was page boy and little Miss Louise Hanick was flower girl.

Groomsmen were Joseph Flid and Frank Murphy.

AFTER THE ceremony a buffet lunch was served when the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and decorated with chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. Fr. Ketchen proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple has taken up residence at 12119 97 street.

Eileen Golding Wed in Edmonton

Norwood United church was the scene of a wedding Dec. 23, when Miss Eileen Golding, daughter of Mrs. E. W. Linney, of Calgary, and the late Albert Golding, became the bride of John William Sharpe, son of Mrs. Myrtle M. Sharpe, of Calgary, and the late James Sharpe. The Rev. W. T. Young performed the ceremony.

The bride chose for her wedding an afternoon frock of lime green velvet, complemented with a white hat and accessories, and a corsage of gardenias.

Bridesmaid was Miss Edna McGillivray, of Edmonton. Robert McQueen of Edmonton attended the bridegroom as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe left later for a honeymoon trip to Banff, the bride travelling in a brown gabardine suit, with topcoat of robin's egg blue, trimmed with tuxedo fronts of gray squirrel.

The couple will take up residence in Edmonton, where the former is attending the University of Alberta.

UFWA Present Resolutions

CALGARY, Jan. 9.—(CP)—The UFWA convention opened here this morning. Resolutions, sent in from various locals, cover a wide scope of interests.

The need for rural electrification has been felt most strongly by Brooks and Bow River locals, and resolutions were sent forward from their conferences asking that the provincial government make electrification available to those districts a "a post-war project with the ultimate idea of public ownership of such systems."

THE STAVELY delegates will press that "a part of unused military buildings and equipment be used for the care of old people in this province."

A form of contributory pensions for old people in the province is urged by the Sylvan Lake group which feels there is an element of charity in the present system of old age pensions.

The local at Two Rivers is urging that the voting age be lowered to 18 as that is the age men were called to fight. "This voting age should stand for both federal and provincial elections."

A RESOLUTION sent from the Fort Saskatchewan local will be subject to wide discussion as it deals with an article published in a national magazine "accusing Canadian farmers of receiving more for the commodities they produce than their just share of the consumer's dollar, and that the farmer is the political octopus who has influenced the government through political pressure." It is felt that these accusations are the "exact opposite of the truth."

The resolution asks that the editor of the magazine publicly rescind the "ridiculously incorrect accusations made in this article."

WED AT ST. STEPHEN'S CHAPEL

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fletcher Bishop, the former Miss Mary Alexandra Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chandler, of Edmonton, who were married at St. Stephen's College chapel on Tuesday evening with the Rev. E. B. Brundage of Daysland officiating. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. T. J. Bishop of Three Hills and the late Mr. Bishop. The couple will make their home in Three Hills.

Mary Chandler Becomes Bride Of Thomas Fletcher Bishop

At St. Stephen's College chapel the wedding took place Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m., of Miss Mary Alexandra Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chandler, of Edmonton, to Thomas Fletcher Bishop, son of Mrs. T. J. Bishop, of Three Hills, Alta., and the late Mr. Bishop. The Rev. E. B. Brundage of Daysland, Alta., officiated.

White chrysanthemums and white tapers adorned the chapel, where the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a gown of white English lace over ivory satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, at the V of which she wore her grandmother's jewel broach, and long sleeves, ending in lily points over the wrists. Her veil was a floor-length model caught to her head with a pleated coronet, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby chrysanthemums.

MISS YVONNE Chandler, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore floor-length rose sheer, with lavender gloves and head dress, and carried a colonial bouquet of white, yellow and mauve chrysanthemums.

Best man was James Bishop, and usher was Eric Coffin.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. H. P. Brown, and during the signing of the register, R. A. Wilson sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in the Highlands, where the rooms were decorated with white, yellow and mauve chrysanthemums.

For receiving the guests, Mrs. Chandler chose a black crepe and satin frock, a tiny black felt hat trimmed with blue feathers, and a corsage of pink roses.

MRS. BISHOP assisted, wearing a black two-piece dress with sequin trim, small black hat, and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was laid with a white cut work Irish linen cloth, and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked by tall white tapers.

Pouring tea were Mrs. T. W. Higginson and Mrs. J. A. Smith, and servitors were the Misses Audrey and Ainsley Chandler, Ellen Bishop and Helen Smith.

Toast to the bride was proposed by W. H. Logan.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon at Vancouver, motoring by way of the United States. For travelling, the bride chose a moss green wool suit with brown and cream accessories. Her topcoat was a rust wool model, fur-lined, and with it she wore a moss green felt hat.

When they return, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will take up residence in Three Hills.

Judge Is Urged For Settlement Labor Disputes

Legislative provision for the submission of labor disputes to a supreme court judge, or other competent single tribunal, when the arbitration machinery now in operation fails to effect a settlement of the dispute is necessary if serious labor unrest and strikes are to be avoided in Canada, A. L. Smith KC, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Calgary West, told members of the Law Society of Alberta at the first annual meeting of the society since 1939 which opened at the court house Wednesday morning.

MR. SMITH WAS speaking on "Impressions of a Western Lawyer in the House of Commons".

He said that the difficulty in management-labor relations in all provinces was that there were boards of conciliation, which often succeeded in effecting settlement of disputes, but sometimes failed and strike action followed.

When such failure occurred there should be provision for appeal to a supreme court judge or other authority to seek a settlement. He said this suggestion was being considered by the government, and it was possible that legislation making provision for this appeal would be enacted.

HE SAID THAT IF IT was possible to bring labor disputes back to the rule of law the nation would be well on the way to decent standards of living for all.

Commenting on the Bretton Woods agreement debate in the House of Commons, Mr. Smith paid tribute to the sincerity of the opposition and financial Credit members to that proposal.

Mr. Smith said the Bretton Woods pact was very far from being the cure-all, but it is a vehicle that will keep the trade of nations moving freely, and without such free movement the world for Canada, especially the west, would not be very bright.

HE SAID THAT THE mission on which Hon. James A. Gardiner and Hon. James A. MacKinnon were now on in Britain was one of the most important for years. That mission, he added, was to deal with Britain and assist in the solution of her import needs under the terms of the Bretton Woods agreement.

The primate will deliver an address to the Diocesan Women's Auxiliary Wednesday afternoon at 3 in the All Saints Church parish hall. In the evening he will be a guest of the Masonic lodges. He will be in Calgary on Thursday.

Top Auto Priority Goes to War Vets

Double amputation cases also are entitled to top priority with certain qualifications.

Claims Persons May Be Held as War Criminals

The trials of Nazi war criminals for their responsibility for the starting of the Second Great War may result in the adoption of the principle of holding individuals as well as nations responsible for their actions, and may be an extremely important development in the realm of international law, says Professor John P. Humphrey, Montreal, a member of the faculty of law, McGill University, who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday morning.

PROF. HUMPHREY is making a tour of Western Canada under the auspices of the Institute of International Affairs, and addressed the Edmonton branch at a dinner meeting at the Edmonton club Tuesday evening. He spoke on the United Nations Charter.

There was little that was radically new in the set-up of the United Nations organization, Prof. Humphrey stated. It was another attempt to organize the world's states into a co-operative whole for the preservation of peace and good will under a code provided through international law.

HE SAID that international law governs a state only, and only by exception does it reach the individual. This modification of international law to individuals is one of the main reasons for its ineffectiveness.

A great many people do not think that the United Nations pattern of organization is adequate to the needs of the atomic age, Prof. Humphrey stated.

He said they considered it necessary to have a supplemental organization in direct relationship to individuals.

BESIDE INTERNATIONAL law governs states and not individuals the sanctions of international law cannot be imposed on individuals as such, but when a state official fails to act, or acts wrongly he engages the collective responsibilities of the state.

He said that collective sanctions against the state were unfair because many innocent people suffer while the culprit gets off free.

THEY ARE DANGEROUS because the state against whom they are imposed is not likely to accept them, and war follows. He suggested that was the reason why the security council of the United Nations organization had precluded sanctions against any of the great powers.

He said that only if the principle of individual responsibility is substituted for collective responsibility can the principle of international sanctions be solved.

ASKED CONCERNING the prospect of individuals being punished direct to the operations of international law Prof. Humphrey said there existed "the common interest of states, and their narrow nationalism.

However, notwithstanding the fact that individuals are not responsible the present trials of Nazi war criminals indicates that they are being held personally responsible for their acts.

IT IS POSSIBLE to look upon these trials as something more than offences against international law and it may be that the individual can no longer hide behind the collective responsibility of the state.

If that can be established through these trials they will be more important in the development of international organization than the adoption of the United Nations Organization itself.

Many Men Needed In Lumber Camps

Unless more than a thousand men are found in the very near future to accept work in the bush and lumber camps in Alberta there will be a serious lumber shortage in the province in the spring, according to W. G. Paterson, assistant manager of the Edmonton employment services offices.

THE LABOR OFFICE officials have requests from logging and lumber companies for all types of men for this field of work Mr. Paterson said, and urged all who are capable of doing the heavy work required by the industry to apply at once.

Living conditions in the camps are said to be excellent by labor department officials who have made a survey of them in the past few weeks, and bush wages are higher than they have been for years, with a minimum of $70 a month at the start and the opportunity to graduate to well-paid piece work when experience is gained.

Rye at Winnipeg Advances Limit

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9 — (CP) — Rye futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today resumed their aggressive advance with July and October advancing the full five-cent limit permitted for one day's trading while May advanced 4½ cents to $2.00. The October future retained the five-cent advance at the close but there was some recession from the high in the July. Buying for American account and light offerings accounted for the advance but profit taking in the July accounted for the slight decline near the close.

Final prices were 3½-5 higher with May $2.00; July $1.90¾; Oct. $1.72b.

There was no export business reported in Canadian wheat.
